Robert Morris, left, Senate Internal Security subcommittee counsel, tells newsmen in Washington that the committee has no plans to name Lester Pearson, Canadian foreign secretary, as having fed wartime information to a Communist spy ring. Morris commented on a story published by the Toronto Star which said the group might involve Pearson. Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md.), only subcommittee member present, listens to statement.

Water Board Plans To Meet Group Supply Unit of Chamber Will Discuss Program at Session

Benjamin Schechter, president of the Kingston Board of Water Commissioners, today announced he would call a meeting of the board to discuss "future planning" with the water supply committee of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Schechter said he had received a letter from the newly formed committee of the chamber, which aims to "work for the immediate development, necessary financing and rapid completion of the needed improvements to our water supply system."

The committee, he said, expressed a desire to meet with the water board in order to familiarize themselves with the needs, and to work out the most effective procedures by which the needed improvements can be realized.

Schechter said he would call the meeting to discuss "future planning and the recommendations of the board's consulting engineers with members of the chamber's water supply committee." It is the policy of the board, he said, to cooperate with civic groups such as this in order that they may have better understanding of the present and future water requirements of this city.

Will Open Bids

B. D. Tallamy, state public works superintendent, announced today that bids will be opened Dec. 18 in Albany for plumbing, heating and electrical work at 40 toll plazas to be located at interchanges along the New York State Thruway. The state estimate on plumbing work is $340,000, on heating and ventilation $346,000, and for electrical facilities $600,000.

Visits Holy Sepulchre

Jerusalem, Nov. 24 (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania crossed today from Israel to Jordan-held territory to visit the Holy Sepulchre and other religious shrines in the old city of Jerusalem and in Bethlehem. Fine was to return to Israel to address the Tel Aviv branch of the Israel-America Friendship League tonight on contemporary American politics.

Peg Leg Bates Joins Kapers Cast

Peg Leg Bates, well known dancer who operates his own country club near Kerhonkson, will make a special appearance during tonight's closing performance of the Kiwanis Kapers at the high school auditorium, it was announced by Hubert Boderath, Kaper committee chairman.

Bates, who appears on TV on Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town program, has just completed a 10-week tour of the United States.

The Kapers, which opened Monday night for its two-night stand at the Kingston High School, is produced by the Kiwanis Club to raise funds for its scholarship and welfare funds. Doors open at 7 p. m. and curtain is at 8:15 p. m. Tickets will be sold at the door, if available.

Mrs. Barnett Has Serious Wounds Caused by Youths

Viola, Nov. 24 (AP)—Fearful women armed themselves and barred their doors today as police scoured the woods for a murderous "teen-age maniac" with a weird obsession against electrical equipment.

The youth yesterday assaulted Mrs. Howard D. Barnett, 52-year-old wife of a chemical company executive, after breaking into her home. She was recovering from pneumonia.

With cold-blooded fury, he smashed at his victim with a sawed-off shotgun, breaking an arm and leg, fracturing her skull, and inflicting other injuries.

She was in fair condition today.

Fled as Sirens Sounded

He fled as police sirens sounded in the distance. Mrs. Barnett had managed to remove the telephone from its cradle and a horrified but alert telephone operator heard her screams. The operator, Mrs. Lila Boardner, summoned authorities.

As the investigation, spread, local and state police traced the youth's deprecations through a neighborhood house and back to a closed resort hotel, Pine Wood Castle, about half a mile down the road.

He apparently had lived in the deserted hotel for four or five days.

The trail was one of smashed radio and television sets, broken light bulbs, cut electric wiring, and damaged electric toasters. Almost everything electrical had felt the marauder's fury.

Three pairs of scissors were found buried in door panels.

Fits Other Description

Police said the youth, described by Mrs. Barnett as about 19, with curly, dirty blond hair, fitted the description of a young man who twice in recent weeks snatched handbags from women on the streets of nearby Spring Valley.

The Spring Valley police snatched a word to his victims leading police to believe he possibly was a mute.

The young man who attacked Mrs. Barnett spoke, however.

He tried several times to stop her shrieking with a brusque "shut up."

Despite her injuries, Mrs. Barnett managed to crawl out onto her lawn.

There she was found by her sister, Mrs. Charles Buxton, who lives in the next house to the south, about half a block away. Mrs. Buxton was summoned by Mrs. Boardner, the telephone operator.

Offer Disperses 1,000

Trieste, Nov. 24 (AP)—An offer of free meals dispersed a throng of about 1,000 jobless Trieste gathered in front of an Allied Military Government labor office today. The workers, who staged three demonstrations last week demanding an increase in welfare assistance and won free lunches each time, met again this morning before the labor office. A spokesman told them that starting today more than 1,000 free meals will be served daily at a communal charity mess hall. An estimated 17,000 persons are jobless here.

Character Assassins Are Rapped

President Says Outraged Citizenry Will Impose Penalties — Award Presented

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower, starting a Thanksgiving holiday today, says no one can "assassinate your character from behind without suffering the penalties an outraged citizenry will impose."

That was the code of the old west where he grew up and it is a code Americans still cherish, the President declared last night in accepting the B'nai Brith Anti-Defamation League's annual democratic legacy award.

Eisenhower arranged to leave by plane today for Augusta, Ga., for a vacation of golf and Thanksgiving Day turkey dinner with his family.

He was traveling from Washington with Mrs. Eisenhower and they scheduled a stop en route at Ft. Benning, Ga., to pick up their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Eisenhower, and their three grandchildren. Their son, an army major stationed at Ft. Benning, will join the family at the Augusta National Golf Club later in the week.

Gets New Cottage

A spanking new white brick cottage—situated near the club's 10th tee—was ready for the Eisenhowers. It was built by fellow club members for the President's use. He plans to return to Washington Sunday evening.

Thus, he will miss the Army-Navy football game at Philadelphia Saturday. Next week he goes to Bermuda for the Big Three conference, arriving the morning of Dec. 4, a day after French Premier Laniel and two days after British Prime Minister Churchill. Eisenhower spoke last night at the Mayflower Hotel and his brief informal address was televised to a nationwide audience. Among those present in the hotel ballroom were Chief Justice Earl Warren, Supreme Court associate justices and several members of the cabinet and Congress.

The President received a standing ovation when Henry E. Schultz, chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai Brith, a Jewish service association, handed him the league's silver medalion award.

Praises His Leadership

Schultz praised Eisenhower for "leadership in the great crusade to bring about the elimination of Nazi tyranny... for your vigorous campaign to eliminate racial segregation in the armed forces; for your efforts to end undemocratic patterns of racial discrimination in Washington, out capital city."

"But most of all," said Schultz, "we honor you for your continuing leadership of the free world."

Eisenhower replied he had been briefed at length by his staff on civil liberties and the league's role in standing up for them. But he said he wasn't going to talk to the league members "about something of which they know a lot more than I do."

Then the President noted he was reared "in the west" in Abilene, Kan.

"We had as our marshal for a long time a man named Wild Bill Hickock," he added. "If you don't know anything about him, read your westerns more."

Allies Will Try to Win Back 22 Yanks and Other POWs

Panmunjom, Nov. 24 (AP)—The allies revealed today they are making final preparations for efforts to win back 22 Americans, one Briton and 328 South Koreans who have refused to come home.

The UN command disclosed it has been sparring for two weeks with the Korean war prisoner repatriation commission over how many allied interviewers will be permitted to talk with the prisoners.

The allies have requested a total of 15-5 Americans, 5 Britons and 5 South Koreans.

The commission has set a limit of five.

Meanwhile, allied and Red negotiators meeting nearby on arrangements for a Korean peace conference discussed sites, but got nowhere again.

The first official indication that the UN is about ready to start interviewing the reluctant allied POWs came with the release of two letters to the Repatriation Commission and one reply.

The allies have little time left—the 90-day interview period is scheduled to end Dec. 23.

There were unofficial indications that the UN also is working behind the scenes to smooth out all preparations before the explanations begin—presumably to avoid

Dulles Upholds Propriety Of Questioning Gouzenko

Bermuda Welcomes Elizabeth

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 24 (AP)—These vacation islands gave a flower-decked welcome today to Queen Elizabeth II. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived for a one-day visit, the first ceremonies stop of their six-month trip around the world to farflung corners of the British Commonwealth.

Their American-built Strato-cruiser reached American-leased Kindley Field at 9:55 a. m. (8:55 a. m. EST). This was 5 hours 28 minutes after the takeoff from Gander, Nfld. They had reached Gander early today from London.

Gov. Sir Alexander Hobb headed the party to welcome the Queen and her husband in an airport ceremony, the first event of their crowded one-day stay. The royal couple will take off again at 6 a. m. tomorrow for Jamaica to continue the six-month tour that will take them to Australia, Ceylon, New Zealand and 10 British possessions and protectorates.

Farwell Is Given

The Queen and her husband took off from London after an enthusiastic farewell from other members of the royal family, top officials of the British government and thousands of her cheering subjects.

An hour before, they had said goodbye to their two small children—Prince Charles, 5, and Princess Anne, 3, at Buckingham Palace.

Sped by strong tail winds, their big plane, the Canopus, raced across the Atlantic to Gander in 9 hours and 52 minutes. It roared out of the fog 22 minutes ahead of schedule to a perfect landing on the big International Airport. It was the first transatlantic air crossing by a reigning British monarch.

Although no ceremony had been arranged since the stop was "unofficial," the queen and the duke made a surprise appearance at the plane door near the end of the 94-minute refueling and servicing stay at Gander. A crowd of 300, gathered in the early morning gloom, cheered lustily.

Spectators Greeted

The royal couple apparently had been awakened by the noise of the crowd and dressed hurriedly to greet spectators before the takeoff.

The plane's chief pilot, Capt. A. C. Loraine, 43, told newsmen on arrival at Gander: "It was a very good trip." An aide said the air-minded duke, who recently won his wings, had sat in the co-pilot's seat during the Atlantic crossing but did not take over the controls.

Extraordinary safety precautions surrounded the flight. Royal Canadian Air Force bombers, which met the big strato-cruiser 750 miles east of Gander provided an escort for the hop to Bermuda.

On the transatlantic hop, a flight of Lancaster bombers accompanied the royal plane all the way. Eight British and Canadian warships, spaced across the ocean, kept a radio and radar watch.

Death in the Night

Rescue workers extricate the bodies of five persons who were found in the wreckage of a single-engine plane that crashed in a deserted area of La Guardia Airport, N. Y. The plane had apparently tried to make a landing during the night in the fog and haze and had crashed unobserved. The wreckage was discovered in the morning when the fog lifted. The victims, two men, a woman and two children, were all from New York. (NEA Telephoto).

Loughran Favors Dual Program, He Tells Po'keepsie

No Reason, He Says, Why Two Spans Could Not Be Built at Same Time

The Poughkeepsie New Yorker yesterday quoted James F. Loughran, of this city, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority, as saying he could "see no reason," why the Kingston-Rhinecliff and Newburgh-Beacon bridges could not be constructed at the same time.

Loughran also "hinted" the newspaper said, that legislation may be put before the Senate and Assembly next year to permit the dual program.

As the law stands, the article noted, the bridge in the Kingston area must be finished before work could start on the other down the river.

Sees No Objection

Loughran noted, the newspaper said, that there is a strong "sentiment" for constructing both bridges at the same time, and added: "I don't see any objections to it."

The Poughkeepsie newspaper also noted that last spring the Legislature increased the bridge authority's bonded debt limit to $50,000,000, which, it says, would be "enough to finance construction" of both bridges.

The law stipulated, however, that before the authority could float bonds for construction, it would have to pay $5,500,000, owed on the Mid-Hudson bridge, to the state.

The western approach of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge is being built, the state public works department expects soon to advertise bids for clearing and grading the eastern approach and work on the abutments and piers is due to start in the spring.

Martin Doubts Passage Of General Sales Levy

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.) appeared today to have delivered a final, fatal blow against any prospect that Congress would enact a general sales tax next year.

Martin, returning from a two-months tour abroad, told a news conference yesterday he doubts a sales tax could pass the House.

That made it just about unanimous among House leaders on both sides of the aisle.

Democratic leaders, after a canvass of sentiment, predicted last week that 95 per cent of their party members would vote against any national sales tax. And Republican Floor Leader Charles

Let Them Quit Lodge Speaks of Reds

United Nations, Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States said today the only way Russia can win American friendship is to "give up seeking the violent overthrow of the United States."

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. told the U. N. 60-Nation Political Committee the Soviet Union "admits it is plotting our destruction." He said this naturally caused a strong reaction among the American people and press.

Schick to Become Assistant to DA

Port Ewen Man to Replace Abernethy—Served in Air Force

District Attorney Howard C. St. John today announced that John Schick, of Port Ewen is to be the new assistant district attorney to replace James J. Abernethy who will become Kingston's corporation counsel on Jan. 1.

Schick attended Siena College and Albany Law School after graduating from Kingston High School. He was the winner of the Moot Court Trial in the year of his graduating from law school. He served in the U. S. Air Force during World War 2 and recently has been associated with the law firm of Rusk & Rusk at Marlborough.

Abernethy, who will succeed James G. Connolly as the city's corporation counsel, is a graduate of Kingston High School. He attended Fordham University and was graduated from the Albany Law School. He served in the U. S. Army during World War 2 in Europe and was awarded the Purple Heart.

Has Been Discharged

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—A Naval Academy midshipman who left the academy, traveled across the country and turned himself in at a Wyoming air base, has been discharged, the academy said. The announcement yesterday said Midn. William N. Dietch, 19-year-old plebe from Fairlawn, N. J., was discharged "because of unsatisfactory conduct." He had disappeared from the Academy Hospital Oct. 20 and a week later turned himself in at a Warren Air Force Base, Cheyenne, Wyo.

Ulster Is Leading County for Size In Business Firms

Federal Agencies Show 21 Businesses in Operation for Every 1,000

New York, Nov. 23 (Special)—Ulster county supports more business enterprises, in proportion to its size, than do most counties in the United States. This is shown in data just being released jointly by two federal agencies, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Department of Commerce.

In Ulster county there are 21 businesses in operation—small, medium or large—for every 1,000 residents. This represents a greater concentration of such activity than is found throughout the United States generally, where the average is 19 businesses for every 1,000 people.

Tax Reports Source

The figures were gleaned from the tax reports submitted by employers for the first quarter of 1951 under the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program.

A total of 1,939 businesses, a gain over the 1,809 recorded in the previous (1948) survey, is shown to be operating in the county. This is exclusive of one-man establishments. Of the number, 1,245 have three employees or less. Those with four to seven workers number 307 and the ones with eight to 19 total 231. The remainder are larger companies.

18,127 Employed

Small business is well established in Ulster county, the figures indicate. There are 1,783 firms, or 92 per cent of the total, with less than 20 employees each. This is a greater concentration than is found elsewhere in the country, where small business represents 91 per cent of the (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Girl, 7, Has No Liking For Big Dogs, She Says

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 24 (AP)—Seven-year-old Mavis Halcroft woke up in bed early this morning and called: "Daddy, quick, daddy, help me. Stop this big dog licking my face. He's on my bed."

Her mother looked in and saw a tiger on the bed.

It was Mavis' face while her 3-year-old sister Fay slept beside her undisturbed. Claude Halcroft, the children's father, snatched up his 22 rifle and while his wife held a flashlight on the bed, took careful aim.

"I did not have to tell Mavis to keep still," he said later. "She was under the blankets, very frightened, and as still as could be."

"I fired and the bullet went through the tiger's nose and jaw. It was away in a flash through the door and into the street."

The animal was found later, weak from loss of blood.

It had escaped from a circus after someone tampered with the lock on its cage.

Meanwhile Mavis spent the day in bed. Not because of shock, but because she has a cold.

"I was frightened," she admitted. "I don't like big dogs. I stayed under the blankets."

Doubts Any Effect Upon Any Nation

Secretary Hopes Canada Will Reply to U. S. Requests in Spirit of Amity

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today he thought it was entirely proper for congressional committees to ask the Canadian government for the privilege of questioning Igor Gouzenko.

Dulles also told a news conference he did not think the Harry Dexter White case and its repercussions has had any significant or measurable effects upon America's relation with any country.

As to the requests to question Gouzenko, he said he hoped that Canada would reply in the spirit of friendliness which has characterized relations between that country and the United States. Dulles added that he believed such relations would survive this present incident.

Gouzenko is the former Soviet embassy clerk in Ottawa whose disclosures in 1946 broke a Russian spy ring in Canada.

Would Send Representatives

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), and the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), both want to send representatives to Canada to question Gouzenko in connection with their digging into alleged subversive activities in the U. S. government.

Jenner's committee was turned down on one request and the whole matter has become a warm issue in Canada. A Canadian member of Parliament charged yesterday that "McCarthyites" in the United States were trying to "blackmail" Canada into releasing Gouzenko for questioning.

In turning down the original request, Canada said Gouzenko had no information to add to his previous disclosures. Canada indicated concern too that questioning him might add to the difficulties of protecting him from possible Communist retaliation.

Should Accept Word

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Lester B. Pearson, Canadian secretary for external affairs, says free nations should accept each other's "assurances of sincerity and good faith" in questions of security and subversion.

Pearson urged tolerance among the democracies, particularly in reconciling different ways of dealing with communism in each country, in a speech last night to the English-speaking union of the United States.

His address came with the U. S. State Department awaiting a Canadian reply to its second request that Igor Gouzenko be permitted to appear before U. S. congressional investigators. Gouzenko is the former Soviet Embassy clerk in Ottawa whose disclosures in 1946 broke a Russian spy ring in Canada.

To Make Reply

On his arrival in New York yesterday, Pearson said the reply to the American request would be made today or tomorrow. Canada rejected the State Department's first request, saying Gouzenko has no information to add to his previous disclosures. The Chicago Tribune later quoted Gouzenko as saying he would be able to give advice to the congressional probes.

Pearson, in his talk last night, departed from his prepared text to make one direct reference to Gouzenko. He said he was glad to be at a dinner gathering "where no one is going to ask me, I hope, 'why don't you make Gouzenko available?' or 'when did you cease being a Communist?'"

The controversy was touched upon indirectly in other parts of his address.

Free nations, Pearson said, should accept each other's "assurances of sincerity and good faith" in dealing with questions of security and subversion.

Really Was Shame

Redding, Calif., Nov. 24 (AP)—The man had an awful time trying to rob the grocery. He sawed through the flooring to get into the store, tried to chip the safe loose from its cement base, then tried to burn his way into it with a torch. About that time he was either frightened away or gave up in disgust. Kind of a shame, in a way. The safe wasn't locked and there was $1,100 inside.

Start Building Center

Philadelphia, Nov. 24 (AP)—A new multi-million dollar downtown business center gets underway officially today with groundbreaking ceremonies headed by Mayor Joseph S. Clark. The first of several office buildings, which will comprise Penn Center a project similar to New York's Rockefeller Center, is a 15-million-dollar, 20-story building of ultra-modern design. Uris Brothers, New York builders, said completion and occupancy is planned for early 1955.

No Kiss, but Jail

Des Moines, Nov. 24 (AP)—Jack Howard, 27, asked a coffee shop waitress for a kiss yesterday but got seven days in jail instead. The waitress, Geneva Bice, 20, said she was returning to the coffee shop with doughnuts from a bakery when Howard grabbed her by the neck and said, "how about a kiss?" An unromantic judge sentenced Howard after he pleaded guilty to disturbing the quiet of a person.

Party Ends in Death

Manila, Nov. 24 (AP)—Eight members of a Chinese family burned to death today in a fire which destroyed their home after a gay birthday celebration. Police said the fire apparently started from two candles left burning on the family shrine.

Says Piltown Man Is An Ape

British geologist Alvan Marston, who long has claimed the jaw of the Piltown Man display was that of an ape, displays a modern ape's skull in London to prove his theory. Scientists revealed that the Piltown Man theory, thought to have provided a missing link in man's evolution, was a hoax after length study of the relics dug out of an English pit in 1911. The controversial jawbone, a puzzler to experts for years, was called a deliberate hoax made up from a modern ape's bones. (AP Photo by radio from London).

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

You will be reading this just before Thanksgiving. However, because of moving to Florida for the winter, this piece was written some days earlier. Perhaps you will keep in mind that the Ruminator will not be quite so up to date during the next four months or so because of the necessity of mailing earlier to meet publishing requirements.

One would not think, as he drives over the highways these days, that there was any worry about business. Travel southward appears to be picking up normally for November. I haven't had a chance as yet to check the winter visitors' statistics down here on the West Coast of Florida but from what I've heard in casual conversations a big season is anticipated.

There is one thing true about the current economic situation: People have a lot of money. An extraordinary feature of 1953 is the enormous addition to savings accounts of all kinds. Personal savings will undoubtedly reach a new all-time record in 1953 for accumulated money-in-the-sock—doubtless exceeding the $500 billion figure rung up at the end of 1952. Savings during the past 10 months point to a record postwar annual rate also—possibly as high as $17 billion; certainly well over $16 billion.

You can look at these figures two ways: First, you might say that if people are saving so much they're not spending so much; and second, that the money is there if people renew their spending sprees.

So you come back to the public psychology angles the Ruminator always likes to stress.

As I see it, what has happened is something like this: The Eisenhower administration started off with a lot of propaganda about all the money it was going to save for the government (and the taxpayer). This led into considerable "talk" about inflation's having been conquered. Pretty soon, fears about deflation, appeared in our news.

Therefore, through propaganda people lost their fear of the dollar and felt it was again a good time to save money—particularly inasmuch as most of their wants had been filled. Households are well supplied with new gadgets, and families generally have more than caught up with the war-time shortages.

This may sound somewhat bearish—that business is sure to slump under these conditions.

But you can't jump to conclusions when you are guessing what the public will do.

We know now that the administration's ideas about saving money and balancing the budget were largely based upon hope. Government expenditures in the foreseeable future will continue to be enormous. The budget will not be balanced this year or next. Indeed, if government revenues fall off the deficit will be shockingly large.

Accordingly, it may not be very long until people begin to realize that the dollar is not gaining—that, in fact, it may depreciate somewhat further as inflation once again starts up.

If this occurs people are likely to ease up on saving and start to spend again. The Ruminator has felt that we cannot tell much about this spending sentiment until we see what sort of a Christmas season develops. The holiday spending period starts right after Thanksgiving, so we shall shortly learn how this Christmas will stack up against previous ones for spending totals.

The next test comes after New Year's, but the sentiment stimulated during the holiday season has a bearing on how people will feel about spending when Christmas is over.

There is another side to this problem, too. That is the supply of money. The government and the Federal Reserve authorities are manifestly doing their part in keeping money and credit "easy"—there is no tightening of the credit strings. If one reads the monetary signs they clearly say "we want to stimulate spending so call on us for funds if you need them." That is, banks do not need to feel that they have to call in loans. Reserves are ample, and are being kept ample by Reserve-bank policies.

All in all, it is going to be interesting to see which way the much-watched slump-cat is going to jump. It may surprise a lot of people by taking off again in a spending leap.

Flood Dangers Increase In Pacific Northwest

(By The Associated Press)
Flood dangers appeared increasing in sections of the Pacific Northwest as more rain fell today from northern California northward.

Two persons have drowned and some 3,500 persons have been isolated by heavy rains in Oregon and northern California. In Coos and Curry counties, southwest Oregon, every major highway was blocked by high water or slides. The towns of Coquille, Myrtle Point, Powers and Bandon were isolated.

Rain continued in northern New England today, but the stormy weather which brought heavy rains in other eastern states ended.

Rain mixed with snow fell across the northern Great Lakes region while light rain hit eastern sections of the Central Plains and Ohio valley and in the 30s generally in Texas and the lower Mississippi valley. Readings were in the 30s and the 40s in the Appalachians and ranged into the 50s along some coastal sections. They also were in the 50s along the Pacific coast and in the far southwest.

Grier Announces Guard Enlistments For Local Battery

Recent enlistments in Headquarters Battery, 156th Field Artillery Battalion, were announced today by Capt. Andrew B. Grier. They are:

SFC Ed Ferrari of Kyserike, Sgt. George Countryman of Kingston, Cpl. Charles Benson of Saugerties, Pvt. Albert Whittaker of Kingston, Pvt. Robert McGreevy of Kingston, Pvt. Herbert Hamilton and Pvt. Charles Berryann of Shandaken and Pvt. Samuel Appa of Kingston.

Promotions Listed

The following were recently promoted to private first class: William Anderson of Kerhonkson, Claude Benjamin of New Paltz, Kenneth Kurtz of Shandaken, Lee Landervay, Jr., of Kingston, Charles Landi of Kingston and Stephan Palen of Hurley.

Capt. Grier said a number of openings remained in the Battery and, when filled, there would be a waiting list. He urged those interested to attend one of the weekly drills from 8 to 10 each Monday for a personal interview.

Grier pointed out that a young man enlisting in the Guard served his military obligation here at home by serving with the Guard for a period of nine years. He explained that all young men have a military obligation of eight years, even those who serve two, three or four years of active duty. The young guardsman is available for county, state or federal duty at any time.

May Choose Branch

Any men who join the Guard, he said, may enlist in any branch of service he desires at a later date. All services have expressed a desire for young men who have received National Guard training. Those participating in college ROTC can receive credit for Guard training and, as long as they remain active, are draft exempt. In order to remain in active status they cannot miss more than four drills a year and must attend annual summer field training.

Grier said there was no better way for World War 2 or Korean veterans to remain active and work towards retirement benefits than to join the Guard. He urged parents to attend a drill with their sons and observe the training program. Those wishing further information about the Guard may telephone Sgt. Kirm at 156 or Capt. Grier at 4045-R.

Pay Is Explained

Grier said the Guard many years ago had no paid members but many volunteers. Today, they are paid a full day's wages for every two hours of drill, according to their rank. Years ago the Guardsman had to furnish his own uniform whereas today the government furnishes clothing and equipment. Grier said the local Headquarters Battery kept abreast of latest trends in training and equipment with all officers and a large percentage of the NCOs enrolled in special correspondence courses. Many members of the local battery are combat veterans, Grier pointed out.

RUBBER PROBLEM

Communism thrives in economic unrest. This is the situation in Malaya where the British have been successful in putting down the Reds and yet have had some of the gains they made offset by a slump in the price and production of rubber.

The slump has caused unemployment and unemployed workers are always more willing to listen to criticism of free enterprise. Responsible British and Malay leaders fear that American production of synthetic rubber constitutes a further threat to the Malayan markets.

Indonesian rubber plantations are selling some rubber to countries behind the Iron Curtain. From the American point of view this is undesirable for several reasons. It supplies the Reds with a commodity they must have to build up their armed forces and at the same time it allows the Communists to get their foot in the door in Indonesia. If countries friendly to us must do business with Russia to survive economically a question arises as to how long they can remain dependable allies.

Yet in order to remove incentive for war, Russia must buy and sell and so must our allies. Prosperity based on commerce is one of the great preventives of war. No one really knows what is best to do. But perhaps the solution is more trade, not less. Nations which do business with each other over long periods of time tend to lose interest in killing each other off. They prefer to keep good customers.

COPTERS IN BELGIUM

A Belgian airline is using helicopters to carry passengers and although they are losing money on each helicopter ticket they are not concerned. The airline has noted a sharp increase in the number of people who are using regular plane service and the increase is credited to the convenience of using helicopters on short flights. This more than compensates for the loss.

One of the drawbacks to present air travel is the distance from airports to large cities. It sometimes takes as long to get from the landing field to the town as it does to get from the starting point to the field. With helicopters this distance from the field to destination can be traveled with greater speed and ease.

The fact that the idea has caught in Belgium is a tribute to the influence of American techniques in Europe today. For centuries Europe has conducted business in a conservative manner. Now American ideas of promotion, of spending money to make money, are stimulating all forms of commerce. As a matter of fact in some ways Europe has adopted our ideas and techniques and put them to more efficient use than we have.

Representative Charles A. Halleck recently told members of the carpet industry that tax relief is just ahead. It is also understood that it is not necessary to pay taxes on any gains realized by finding the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

NEW THIRD CITY

Philadelphia has to give up its long-held position as our third largest city. Los Angeles is its successor. A special federal census held early in November gave Los Angeles 2,071,271 to Philadelphia's 2,071,605. This left Philadelphia 334 ahead, but that did not stop the Californians. They promptly took steps to annex another suburb of 7,000 inhabitants, which should give them a safe lead.

Los Angeles is likely to retain its new place. It has grown phenomenally for some years, while Philadelphia's growth has been moderate. "Chicago next!" Los Angelesans cry, but that will be a tougher task. And of course New York has an enormous lead over Chicago.

Perhaps Los Angeles might annex enough territory to make up even that difference. There was as much truth as humor in a sign scribbled on the walls of Boulder Dam in Arizona, 300 miles away, "Los Angeles City Limits."

THE TROJAN HORSE

One phase of the White Case which ought not to pass unnoticed is the attitude of the anti-anti-Communists. They ignore the dreadful facts of espionage, fully documented by Herbert Brownell, Jr., and J. Edgar Hoover. Apparently they do not quarrel with espionage. Their quarrel is with those who are anti-Communists.

It is a curious phenomenon in American life, because while every citizen is entitled to his opinion and to its expression, espionage by an American in the interest of a foreign foe or even a foreign nation that is not a foe should be normally abhorrent to an American.

The phrase, anti-anti-Communist, is cumbersome and does not quite convey the idea that while those who follow this line say that they are as violently opposed to Communism as anybody else, they always, without exception, come to the defense, if not of Marxist ideas, certainly of Communist personalities when they get into trouble.

The consistency of their position inevitably engenders suspicion as to their motives. Their is a pattern of support. And while it is not possible to say that they are pro-Marxist or pro-Russian, it is possible to establish that they are the vanguard of the defense of Communist individuals.

Marquis Childs recently wrote: "In this gloomy view—gloomy, that is, to those who feel that a continuing Katzenbach act is hopelessly destructive—Brownell and Republican National Chairman Hall will conclude that more and bigger White cases will serve their purposes. They will thus go into the uneasy graveyard of the recent past and come up with a new skeleton whenever the prevailing excitement shows signs of damping down."

And why not? Are not the lessons of history learned by digging in the graveyards of the past? Why do historians and archeologists seek the remains of ancient civilizations if it is not to broaden our understanding of human conduct? How, for example, are we ever to learn how to protect our national existence if we do not discuss the methods that the Russians employed in their infiltration of our government, using native sons as spies? How did they recruit these extraordinary brilliant young men? What was the attraction? How did they manage to get them to forsake every ideal of loyalty and morality, to forsake a country that gave them every opportunity to advance themselves to high positions in government? How can we study this unless we analyze such case histories as come to us?

Harry Dexter White is a case history of an educated American, a graduate of and teacher at Harvard University, an economist who rose to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who became not only a Communist but a spy.

The anti-anti-Communist may say that White is dead. So is Hitler. I have never heard an anti-anti-Communist say that nobody should study the conduct of that maniac because he is dead. But they do object to studying White. Why? Because he was an American Communist. Their line is to protect, to defend the American Communist even if he is established as having been a spy.

This distortion of logic is difficult to understand, particularly when some who follow it are not new and never have been Communists. I lunched with an upright decent American recent years who has never been even remotely associated with Communism, but at the mere mention of Joe McCarthy, he almost jumped. This man had been brain-washed by the anti-anti-Communist line. He could not give me a name, a case, a fact to justify his dislike for McCarthy. He had accepted the smear technique which the anti-anti-Communist spread against a Senator engaged in exposing the very espionage which this man despised.

While he wants the spies exposed, he does not want it done by McCarthy nor does he like Communists identified as Communists, nor does he want liberals marked as anti-anti-Communist, even when they act as defenders of spies.

This illogical position is a product of a mental block which makes it difficult for some liberals minded persons to recognize that we are no longer dealing with academic Marxism but with one of the broadest and most successful imperialistic designs, which uses espionage not only as a method of obtaining military intelligence but as a weapon of war to destroy other nations internally. It is the Trojan horse technique.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE CARE OF THE ELDERLY

A physician stood in line to congratulate an old church elder on his 90th birthday. The old chap then said: "I can thank you for the last fifteen years of comfort I've had in life. You advised me to have an operation on an enlarged prostate."

What about surgery in the elderly?

In Geriatrics, Dr. E. Lee Strohl, Associate Professor of Non-Clinical Surgery, University of Illinois Medical School, states that when a physician or surgeon is confronted with the problem of surgery in an elderly patient, there are several points to be kept in mind. These are: (a) Is surgery necessary to save the patient's life? (b) Will operation remove the physical disability, and rehabilitate the patient to his more or less normal condition? (c) Will it affect a cure of a malignant disease (cancer)?

The healing of the tissues occurs equally well at all ages. The elderly patient has the same ability to lay down fibrous (scar) tissue as has the young adult.

"On many occasions the patriarch of 60 can undergo surgery more satisfactorily than a much younger man, since chronological age does not necessarily parallel the physiological age." This is when the family physician can give the surgeon his findings as to the patient's actual physical condition.

A youthful appearance, evidence of recent physical and intellectual vigor, and the absence of chronic degenerative disease, indicate a good risk patient for surgical treatment.

Naturally there are more complications in old patients but they are not necessarily related or due to the present condition for which surgery is being considered.

"There is no field where seasoned clinical judgment, the art and science of medicine, are as important as in the management of a surgical problem in the elderly patient." The visit should never be hurried as some elderly patients do not think of themselves as old and take pleasure in having things done for them.

Prolonged bed care and change in habits and environment are discouraged. Feeling that their life is all behind them, the elderly patient accepts operation with more tranquility and resignation when he has been put in a proper frame of mind by the physician and surgeon.

As the principal cause of death in old age is heart disease, the surgeon operating on an elderly patient with heart disease must study the following situations with care:

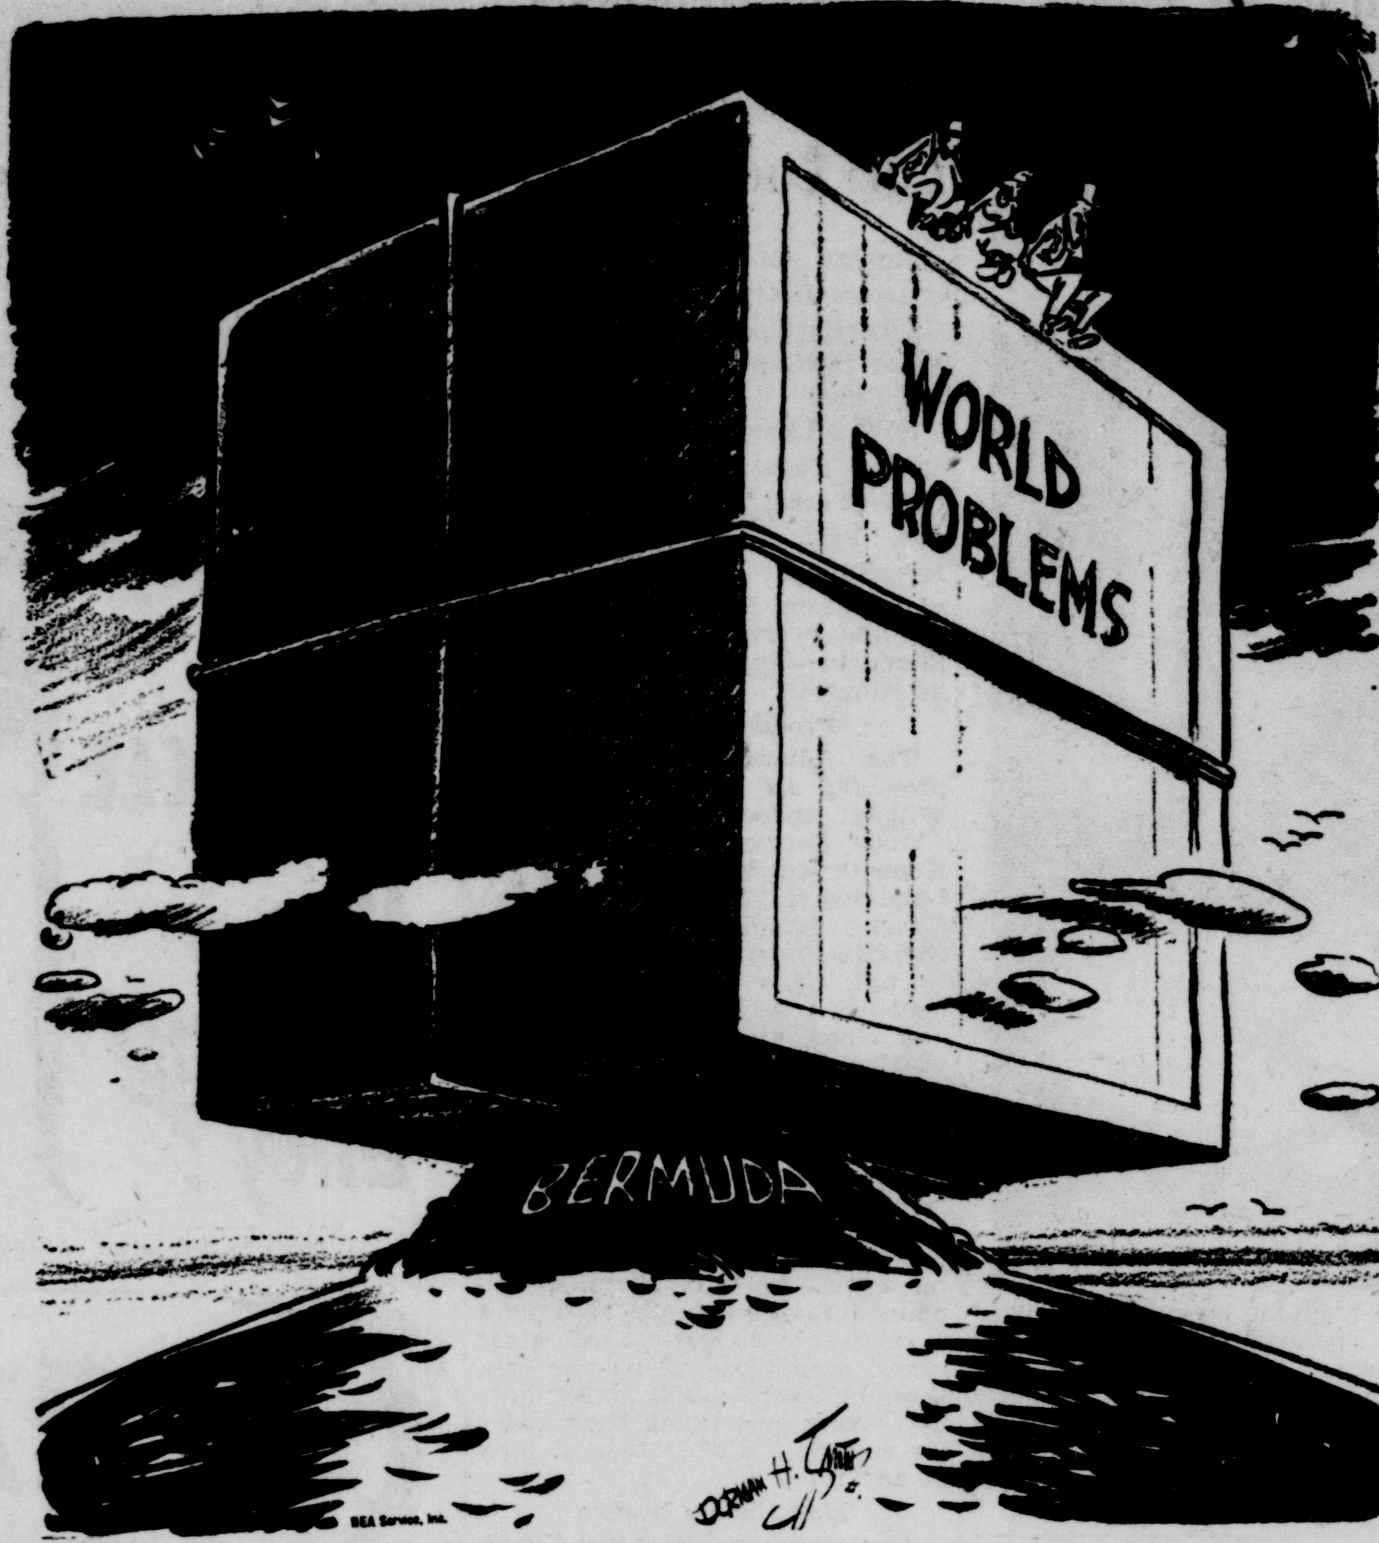

1. The degree and extent of the heart and blood-vessel disease present.
2. The degree of heart restoration possible by treatment.
3. The prognosis (likely outcome) with regard to life expectancy. That is, is it worthwhile to operate life expectancy is short.

Why Worry About You Heart?

Many persons go through life with a hidden fear that they have heart disease when a single visit to their physician could tell them the truth—either way. ## Now to Get It Unpacked and Stowed Away

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington — (NEA) — The White House reception for 1400 members of the gold-braid uniform and decolete diplomatic set turned out to be one of the most gorgeously formal—and one of the dullest — affairs ever held in Washington.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower finished their handshaking chore at 10:35 p. m. and went upstairs, presumably to bed. Dancing in the White House grand ballroom didn't start till 10:50, but a short time after that there were fewer than a hundred of the embroidered and bed-medaled diplomats and their only slightly less resplendent ladies waltzing around to the red-coated Marine orchestra music.

One of the main omissions from this year's diplomatic reception was Washington's native civil-dwelling socially elite, like Mrs. Truxton Beale. Traditionally, Mrs. Beale has given an after-the-White House party at her beautifully restored and gas-lit old Stephen Decatur House, just a block from the Executive Mansion.

The fact that Mrs. Beale was not invited to the White House this year didn't stop her in the least. She invited a couple of hundred of the top diplomatic couples to come to her party after the White House reception, as usual. And that's the oasis they went to. Only pale punch is served at the White House.

Career Girl

Miss Pat Kennedy, daughter of former U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and sister of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, has gone career gal on her family. Like Margaret Truman, Miss Pat is interested in TV, but not as a performer. She has tackled a promotion job for "Inspiration, Please," a family life program plugging the theme, "The family that prays together, stays together."

Washington's First Snow

Washington's unpredicted first snowstorm, arriving two months ahead of schedule, sent a small United Nations of ski-going types scurrying through Rock Creek Park looking for a hill to slide down.

One surprised reporter with similar intentions encountered these:

A couple clad in Tyrolean hats with accent to match.

A State Department exhibit trying to imitate them.

A young Swiss behind the wheel of a foreign car with skis strapped on top, looking for Linnean Hill, having heard of it but not knowing just where it was.

One Christie expert who said she was born in Vienna.

Two Frenchmen and a pretty Parisienne mushing along.

But the snow was too wet and it melted before much skiing was done.

Heavenly Music

At a recent out-of-town appearance, President Eisenhower almost missed his cue when the traditional and stirring musical salute, "Hail to the Chief," was played. When the President makes an entrance at any gathering he's used to hearing the old Scottish tune blared out by trumpets and band. The reason the Chief failed to recognize his theme song on this occasion was that it was played by a couple of harps.

Segregation Problems

Harvey Higley, new veterans' administrator, is breathing easier over his efforts to end segregation in VA hospitals around the country. The program was started without publicity last summer.

So far there has been only one major complaint. A veteran patient in the Otteen, N. C., tuberculosis hospital, sent a three-page telegram to President Eisenhower charging that the place was in a turmoil as a result of attempts to end segregation.

It was decided to do nothing about the complaint and nothing happened. The other patients denied that the telegram sender spoke for anyone but himself, and peace reigns there now.

New-Type Learning

Army's Troop Information and Education program has been quick to follow up on suggestions that U. S. armed forces be given better indoctrination on how to take torture in case of capture by Communist forces. Several courses are being worked up to condition the men against Communist propaganda.

In the past, American troops have been told that under the Geneva convention on treatment of prisoners of war, all the information they are required to give is name, rank and serial number. The trouble is that the Communist countries have not subscribed to this convention.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 23—I draw attention to some phases of peculiar interest in the exploit of Quentin Reynolds, a feature writer in some phases of our journalism and the movies and an occasional petty pundit of television.

This fellow, who poses as a great war correspondent, did a book called "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk," purporting to be the narrative of a Canadian hero of the British military espionage. Soon after the book was published, Don Collins, a reporter on the Calgary, Alberta, Herald, called on the impostor, George Du Pre, and with a few intelligent questions, exposed him as a fraud and his story as a fake.

Since then, Mrs. Valentine Williams, of New York, an actress and the widow of an English journalist of distinction who served in British Military Intelligence during the first war, has come forward with a story written by her late husband and published in the Blue Book magazine in 1927 which she plausibly represents as the actual core of the whole exploit in fakery and gullibility. This story, called "The Pigeon Man," has been recognized as a classical piece.

Mrs. Williams, having read that the expose is stimulating the sale of Reynolds' book in a new guise of fiction, naturally takes an interest in the proceeds not only of the book but of all other and further uses of the story whether for television or the movies.

The idea was first turned up by the Reader's Digest which of recent years has evinced partiality to writers of Reynolds' unique talents and his political tendencies.

I recall to you that the Reader's Digest published a laudation of Irving Brown, who is David Dubinsky's political agent in Europe and possibly an agent of our Central Intelligence Agency, and is also an old-time avowed Communist of the most blood-thirsty vicarious type with no recorded apostasy.

When I describe Brown as blood-thirsty, I qualify that with a notice that his claue in the law-wing magazines and other publications have given us the confusing further information that he retreated from Paris as a base of operations against the Moscow Reds lest he be done to death or at least slapped in the mouth on some dark street.

He has no known record of pugnacity and an attempt to endow him with a wholly hypothetical record as a varsity athlete at New York University prompted me to inquire. The graduate manager of athletics of N.Y.U. then wrote me that there was no trace of anyone named Irving Brown in the archives from the beginning of time to the date of these presents.

Actually, Brown is a bureaucrat and a professional conspirator of a type familiar in the Communist and union movements who tagged along after a mysterious person known as Jay Lovestone, which is not necessary.

Desired Information Can Be Obtained From Igor Gouzenko, Ex-Code Clerk

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 24 — Theoretically the Canadian government is right in refusing to let Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, testify before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. But there are many ways to accomplish the same objective without violating the customary proprieties.

Thus, no investigating committee can be conceded the right to go into Canada, any more than the United States would feel obliged to let a foreign commission seek out citizens inside our own territory for testimony.

In a situation, however, like the "cold war" and, in fact, during a hot war, measures of cooperation between allied governments are adopted which make possible the desired exchange of information. An example of this kind of unity was afforded within the last few years when Klaus Fuchs was arrested in Britain in connection with the transmission of secrets of the atom bomb to the Communists. The Federal Bureau of Investigation was anxious to interrogate Fuchs to get some clues to persons inside the United States who had up to that time not been detected, but who were believed to have had a part in the spy-ring operation. At first, the British government at the top-policy level declined to give the FBI any information or to let its agents interrogate Fuchs. But, after several months of discussion back and forth through diplomatic channels, the questioning by American intelligence agents was permitted and information was obtained that enabled the Department of Justice to catch the Rosenbergs, who were still in the United States, and convict them of espionage.

So, when the objective is the running down of Communist spies in the interest of a nation's security, there are usually ways to pool information and carry on the common fight against persons seeking to injure any ally. Something of the same kind of situation has arisen now with respect to Gouzenko. It has been reported from Ottawa that he has told all he knew. But not until a witness is examined on minute details can it be determined whether he has presented new information. It is important, of course, that such testimony be taken in executive session, and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has been meticulous about maintaining silence on testimony given in secret sessions when secrecy is essential. It might be suggested that the FBI do the interrogating, but under rules established heretofore, information given to the FBI is not available in raw form to any congressional committees and, in any form, only in specific cases.

The FBI, like the intelligence agencies of other countries, gets its information from a variety of sources in foreign lands. The other day reference was made, for example, to a Canadian source which had inquired in 1946 about the future selection of Harry Dexter White to head up the International Monetary Fund. Dispatches from Ottawa in the last few days stated that the document inquiring about this case could not be found. Probably it will not be, because intelligence data are frequently not written down by officials but given orally to security representatives. The Canadian government has doubtless secured much information that way from intelligence sources in the United States government.

It is not feasible, of course, for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to give over its function of gathering information for Congress to any bureau in the executive branch of the government. Sometimes it is not recognized abroad—and indeed many people overlook the fact in this country—that Congress, with its committees, constitutes an independent and coordinate branch of the government. The Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the right of Congress to investigate almost anything upon which it seeks information, either for the purposes of adopting or repealing legislation or even for the purpose of recommending constitutional amendments.

The problem is a delicate one because naturally the Canadian government would not wish to withhold any information that could be of value in helping the American people, through a campaign of education undertaken by Congress, to alert the nation to the ways and means by which the Communist apparatus operates. There is every reason why the Senate Internal Security Committee wishes to respect the attitude of the Canadian government in conforming to custom, and it is a witness to the concern here that which chief-makers in this country have tried to link the committee's request for Gouzenko's testimony to some alleged "smear" of former Secretary Pearson. Plainly somebody is at work trying to disturb Canadian-American relations, and it isn't the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. (Reproduction rights reserved) hoaxing as done by Edgar Allan Poe was an intentional and artistic feat and the product of intelligent skill rather than stupidity and professional failure. Sullivan presented Paul Draper on his program and hurried to the microphone to glorify Josephine Baker after her scandalous fracas at the Stork Club just in time to have her pull the rug from under him by dunning the United States and exalting Peronism in Buenos Aires.

The Herald Tribune was in a fix because it often uses Reynolds to "review" books and thus to attack its enemies and because it had described the current fake as "artistry." The Tribune, which also uses Reynolds' reviews, dealt gently with him and he has been comforted in other expressions, some of them gratuitous.

He has confessed to cooperation with many things which were Communist fronts, always as an innocent and charitable promoter.

The result of such association was such, however, that a friend, Nate Spingold, of Hollywood, applied, without success, to George Sokolsky, who runs a confessional of his own, for a writ of absolute to the American Legion to the same effect was just received and filed without decision.

These facts, taken together, weighed in the other pan of the scale a period in our journalism and "literature" when integrity and honor are yet more rare than a day in June.

Chassene, 16th century French jurist, made an eloquent plea in behalf of some rats accused of destroying the barley crop, and, when they were cited to appear in court, he said that they should be excused, since the presence of cats in the neighborhood made it unsafe for them to appear.

Ballet Triumph

New York (AP)—Sadler's Wells Ballet, in 33 performances in four weeks at the Metropolitan Opera, had box-office receipts of $458,000. That sets a new record, according to S. Hurok, American manager of the tour. The tour, which will run through January and carry the famous company into Canada and to the West Coast, will reach 22 cities.

The regular meeting of Wawarsing Chapter 253, Order of Eastern Star, was held Monday night at Masonic Temple. A special program was given in commemoration of the Thanksgiving season by Mrs. Andrew Lake, matron. The next regular meeting will be held Monday evening, Dec. 7, and on Dec. 21 will be the annual Christmas party, election of officers, exchange of Christmas gifts and the revealing of "secret pals" for 1953. All are asked to bring gifts for the service men at Castle Point to either of these meetings.

Dr. John Weiss tendered his resignation as school physician at the November meeting of the Ellenville Board of Education at the Maple Avenue School Thursday evening. In his letter Dr. Weiss explained that his health would not permit him to fill the position longer. After accepting the resignation, the board authorized Supervising Principal John C. Braun to offer the position to Dr. David Wainapel who has been substituting in the absence of Dr. Weiss, for the remainder of the school year at the same salary as that paid to Dr. Weiss.

The American Legion and Auxiliary enjoyed a family covered dish supper Monday night at the Post rooms. It was followed by the regular meetings of the two organizations, when several new members joined. The main interest was the gift shop program at Veterans' Administration hospitals where there are 20,000 veterans hospitalized. The Albany Veteran's Hospital, with which the local post is associated, has nearly 1,000 veterans at this Christmas time. The auxiliary is planning to participate by sending gifts that they themselves would like to receive. Those who would like to share in this project are asked to leave them at the town clerk's office, 102 Canal street, in care of the American Legion Auxiliary before December 1.

A collection depot has been set up at St. Mary's Church here as a part of the annual Thanksgiving clothing for Korea and refugees in Europe and the Near and Far East which has been instituted in 389 parishes of the Archdiocese of New York. Articles may be left at St. Mary's at any time up to Nov. 29. It was explained in announcing the drive here that Cardinal Spellman had sent out an appeal for clothing for men, children and babies and for shoes and blankets.

The Light-a-Bike program of the Ellenville Teachers Association was held at Liberty Square recently. About 100 youngsters were on hand when the first reflective strip was applied by Gordon Ayer. Before the program closed at noon, about 185 had taken part. Youngsters who failed to report at Liberty Square may secure strips for their bicycles from either Mrs. Herman Solomon, Gordon Ayer of Mrs. Bernard Marcus, association president.

Consults With Editor

Woodstock, Nov. 23—George Berk, resident of this village who is one of this country's leading technical illustrators and art director for the Society of Naval Architects, was called to New York Friday to consult with the society's newly appointed editor. Berk spent the day in conference with Leo S. Blodgett, the new editor, who is also editor for Simmons and Boardman Publishing Company.

To Open Apartments On Village Green

Woodstock, Nov. 23 — Alfred Weyhe, retired vaudeville artist, and his wife Emilia Riccobono Weyhe, former music and dancing teacher of Kingston, have converted the former William Elwyn residence next door to the Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church, on the village green into a group of apartments. The Weyhes, whose two apartment houses on Hurley avenue were claimed by the Thruway, bought the former Elwyn home in the spring of 1953.

It is believed that the Elwyn house, with its gracious Mansard roof, was built many years ago by Edgar Snyder who operated a store where Hout's is now located. Construction and styling of the home was of the finest in this area. It was claimed that sturdy construction of that time was due to ship carpenters.

The Weyhes have brought historical pieces from their home in Kingston which may now be viewed on the front lawn, one being the landing bell of the old Hudson steamer the Mary Powell. It has been placed on a cobblestone pedestal now facing the village green. To the right on the lawn stands one of the first gas lamps of Kingston.

The building is now known as the Village Green Modern Apartments furnished in colonial and French provincial style. They have the atmosphere of rural charm with city conveniences.

NEW MOTHER-IN-LAW'S PROBLEM

Today's first letter tells me: "My son was married several months ago and is living in another state. I write to him every two weeks and tell him all the home-town news. I always address these letters to my son alone, as his wife, whom I met just once, is not from here and would not be interested in this news. I have just received a letter from my son telling me that I have shown very bad manners by not including his wife in these letters and that she is very much upset over this. Is it necessary to include her under the circumstances?"

"Give Mary my love," or "All my love to you both" is certainly all that is necessary. If he tells you something about anything that includes her, you might naturally include a reply such as, "I'm glad Mary is such a wonderful cook" or whatever he had especially praised.

A Ray of Comfort
Dear Mrs. Post: Every year, my husband and I have remembered his parents' anniversary by sending them a present. My father-in-law died this past summer but I think it would be very improper under the circumstances to send a gift.

Answer: It would not be at all improper. In fact, I think a remembrance of her sent with an especial message of thoughtful affection, is far more important this first year she is alone, than any sending of presents heretofore.

Dinner or Supper?

Dear Mrs. Post: I moved to this community two months ago and I notice that most of the people here refer to the evening meal as supper. Ever since I was a child, I have called this meal "dinner." Isn't this the correct name for the evening meal?

Answer: Dinner is correctly the most substantial meal of the day, whether it be served at mid-day or in the evening. "Lunch" (or luncheon) at noon, is followed by "dinner" in the evening. Dinner at noon is followed by supper in the evening.

The type of stationery to use for all occasions, the materials and how to compose a letter are described in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 502, "Etiquette of Letter Writing." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy send 25 cents in coin to Dept. E.P., c/o The

Service Scheduled For Thanksgiving Eve

The annual joint Thanksgiving Eve service of Redeemer and Trinity Churches will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in Trinity Church. These two Lutheran churches have been celebrating this service together for a number of years.

The Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of Redeemer Church, will deliver the sermon entitled, "The Fruits of Thanksgiving," and the service will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Church.

The following special musical program has been arranged under the direction of Mrs. Willard Burke, choir director, and Miss Lucinda Merritt, church organist: Prelude, Jubilate, Kinder; solo, Thanks Be to Thee, John Amarello, Handel; anthem, Prayer of Thanksgiving, Traditional, and postlude, Moderato, Clarke.

The public is invited to attend.

Immunization Clinic To Be Held Nov. 28

A clinic for immunization against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and smallpox will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, 15 Main street, on November 28, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.

Immunization for whooping cough should be started at three months of age, diphtheria and tetanus at six months and smallpox vaccination some time during the first year of life, it was said. These clinics serve those who may not otherwise secure these immunizations or for referral of patients by their physician.

Chuckie at Panmunjom

Panmunjom, Nov. 24 (AP)—There isn't much to laugh about in the snail-paced Korean political talks here, but Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya's comment drew a chuckle today. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the likewise bogged-down Nations Repatriation Commission (NRC), was speaking about U. S. special envoy Arthur H. Dean, allied delegate at the political talks. "That fellow is great for my morale," Thimayya observed. "He's even slower than I am."

'Merit' Seen in Proposal

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sug- gestions that Congress vote mil- lions of dollars in a nationwide fight against teen-age crime had qualified support today from two senators investigating the prob- lem. To Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), it was an idea with "a lot of merit." Sen. Hendrickson (R-N.J.), chairman of the special

Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, said that if his group makes detailed recommendations it may include a plan to combat delinquency with additional fed- eral funds.

Flight Aide Girl

Salzburg, Austria, Nov. 24 (AP)—A mercy flight in a U. S. Army plane has brought relief to a 6-year-old Austrian girl suffering from whooping cough for the past two months, her doctors said today. Austrians for many years have taken cases of this nature to higher altitudes. The worried father of blonde, blue-eyed Eva Maria Markl asked the army if it could help. Lt. Gen. William H. Arnold, commanding U. S. forces in Austria, authorized an army aircraft to take the suffer- ing child up to 6,000 feet. Capt. Ralph S. Pixman, of the Head- quarters Aviation Platoon here, pil- oted a single engine plane for the 35-minute flight Friday afternoon. An army physician and an Aus- trian doctor went along. The doc- tors today said Eva Maria was "visibly much better."

Dispute Halts Work

Philadelphia, Nov. 24 (AP)—Op- erations at Merck and Co. plants in New Jersey and Pennsylvania were at a standstill today with nearly 4,000 workers idle in a dis- pute over wages, a union shop and a seniority rule. About 1,500 CIO workers at the pharmaceutical company's huge Rahway, N. J., plant last night joined the walk- out which began Saturday at three Sharp and Dohme division plants of the Philadelphia area. Some 1,800 workers are involved in the Sharp and Dohme strike. Another 520 workers at Merck's Danville, Pa., plant joined the strike early yesterday.

Allies Will Try

had been impressed into the North Korean army after they were captured.

The Reds say the Koreans strayed into the neutral zone by mistake.

At the preliminary peace conference negotiations, the allies switched to the subject of where to hold a conference, temporarily dropping the knotted question of who shall attend.

U. S. Special Envoy Arthur H. Dean had one succinct suggestion: "Not, please, at Panmunjom."

In what he called an "ode to Panmunjom" the American diplomat, who is accustomed to the better things of life, spoke feelingly of what he finds at Panmunjom.

A rough country of sub-zero temperatures, outdoor toilets, flickering lights, and thoroughly inadequate conference facilities.

He told Red delegates that "Panmunjom is not worthy of serious consideration. All you do is jeer at the cities we have proposed and persist in offering us the mud flats of Panmunjom. I await your serious proposal."

Well into their fifth week, the talks made only "tortoise progress" Tuesday, Dean told newspapermen after the meeting.

A reporter asked for an estimate of how long the talks will go on.

"Oh, hell," said Dean, "I've been so wrong on time I wouldn't predict anything."

At the time the talks began last Oct. 26, Dean predicted they would be over in "10 days to 2 weeks."

The delegates met again at 11 a. m. Wednesday (9 p. m. Tuesday, EST) but will take a recess Thursday, American Thanksgiving Day, at Dean's request.

Schifano Case Is Moved For Trial in County Court

District Attorney Howard C. St. John on Monday moved for trial the Samuel Schifano, manslaughter, first degree, indictment in Ulster County Court.

Judge John Cashin informed Charles H. Gaffney, who with Senator Harry Gittleton of New York, appears for Schifano to notify Senator Gittleton that the Schifano case would be taken up for disposition following the case now on trial.

Schifano, 62, is charged with having caused the death of Mrs. Emelia Nusca, 52, in June 1952. Mrs. Nusca and Schifano were found wounded in her apartment three miles west of Highland on Routes 44-55, on June 20, 1952, and a hatchet and knife was found nearby. Mrs. Nusca died at St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie, on June 23. Schifano recovered.

The case has been moved over several times because of engagements of Gittleton in the Legislature.

Milfred Planck, 55, of Ellenville, entered a plea of guilty to entrance to the Nathan Weiss property in Ellenville. He had previously entered a plea of innocence. H. Edgar Timmerman appeared by assignment for the defendant. Sentence will be pronounced on November 30 at 2 p. m. Planck was remanded to jail.

Raymond Slater, 21, of 48 Broadway, who was charged by indictment with molesting a couple of 15-year-old girls on April 30, entered a plea of guilty to violation of Section 43 of the Penal Law and he will be sentenced on November 30 at 2 p. m. Louis G. Bruhn appeared for defendant and asked bail be continued until next Monday.

George Slover, 36, of Maple Hill entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry, the second count of an indictment charging him with burglariously and unlawful entry growing out of entrance to the Empire Market in New Paltz on August 28. H. Edgar Timmerman appeared for defendant. Sentence will be imposed on November 30 at 2 p. m. Bail was continued until that time.

Several other criminal cases were announced to be taken up for disposition when reached. Other criminal cases were moved over to Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Among the civil cases settled were:

Gertrude Sammons against Allick Mollott, negligence, with Howard C. St. John for plaintiff and A. E. Schober for defendant.

Harry A. Schwartz against Aaron Scott, breach of contract. Frederick H. Stang for plaintiff and Earle H. Houghtaling for defendant.

Mabel Schoonmaker against Perry's Taxi and another, negligence. Howard C. St. John for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

No. 102, Chester Shultis, Jr., against Byron C. Van DeMark, fraud and contract, was moved for trial. Philip Korn for plaintiff and Lloyd R. LeFever by Raymond Mino for defendant.

Approximately 150 persons attended a meeting of the School Improvement Association of the Town of Esopus at the town hall, Port Ewen, last night.

Ralph Johnson, district superintendent of schools, reviewed developments at previous meetings regarding consolidation of schools of northern Esopus and a question-and-answer period was held.

It was decided that a "careful" preliminary survey of voters in interested districts would be made during the next few weeks, with 100 per cent response as the goal.

face with whom you disagree. You could not sneak up on him from behind or do any damage to him without suffering the penalty of an outraged citizenry. If you met face to face and took the same risks he did, you could get away with almost anything, as long as the bullet was in the front."

That touched off a round of laughter, and then the President said:

"And today . . . you live after all by that same code . . ."

"In this country, if someone dislikes or accuses you, he must come up in front. He cannot hide behind the shadow. He cannot assassinate you or your character from behind, without suffering the penalties an outraged citizenry will impose."

If Eisenhower had any individuals in mind in talking about such penalties, he named no names.

"If we are going to continue to be proud we are Americans," he said, "there must be no weakening of the code by which we have lived."

Before the President spoke he and Mrs. Eisenhower watched a telecast round of entertainment and heard a tribute to the Anti-Defamation League and its 40

He reported no visible damage to the bridge.

Martin Doubts

tion's tax program for the next session of Congress shapes up like this:

1—Letting a 10 per cent individual income tax cut and expiration of the excess profits tax take effect on Jan. 1, as scheduled.

2—Canceling an increase from 1½ to 2 per cent in social security tax rates on both workers and employers. This increase goes into effect automatically on Jan. 1. While Congress could cancel it retroactively, this issue seems certain to stir a storm of opposition. Martin supported canceling the increase.

3—Blocking a scheduled reduction from 52 to 47 per cent in top corporation income tax rates, scheduled automatically for April 1. Martin said he thought this could be pushed through the House. He noted that many corporations already would benefit from expiration of the excess profits tax. But this proposal, too, faces strong opposition.

4—Revising the selected excise taxes on some goods. Martin suggested a 10 per cent rate might bring in almost as much revenue as the present 20 per cent levy on such things as luggage, cosmetics, furs and jewelry, by encouraging more sales. He said some of the lower excise taxes might be raised, but declined comment on suggestions that some new goods might be brought under excise taxes.

5—Rewriting and streamlining the overall tax code. Framers of this program are suggesting benefits for working wives and dependents who earn more than $600 a year, among other things. It would cost about 1½ billion dollars annually in revenue losses at full effect.

THE CHIEF — This is the latest portrait of Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain. Ordinarily dressed in military garb, the Spanish leader surprised everyone when he showed up in civilian clothes to pose for the portrait.

No district is wanted in the consolidation plan, it was said, unless that district is in substantial accord. A questionnaire will be prepared and sent to representatives of the various districts by members of the association. Johnson stressed the point that response favorable to the plan would not bind the signer.

Do You Remember
By SOPHIE MILLER

Remember years back on July 4 one's health and limb were often endangered by firecrackers, chasers and similar vicious items. I remember this so vividly, because my father's drug store sometimes took on the aspect of a first aid station. On my block alone, there were several outdoor stands selling fireworks. These stands were surrounded by boys and men who were "burning their money" by buying as fast as they could and their money lasted. Some would stand there all day throwing chasers at legs of girls who went by and laugh while the girls and women jumped from fright and burns. The sidewalk and gutters were full of strings of fireworks. At the time, the trolley ran on tracks down Broadway. All day long there was always someone who placed chasers on the tracks so they exploded when the trolley ran over them and threw pebbles and sparks all over.

As a rule, I did my shopping days before so I could stay indoors, as did many other women and children. It was even dangerous to go to the grocery on the same block as one had to pass the stands. Of course, there was always talk of lock-jaw from such burns. Then suddenly came the common-sense law which forbids the fireworks and folks now can go about their merry way on all streets celebrating a sane and happy July 4 with no loud bangs from morning till midnight.

One other holiday house owners and store owners dread is of course Halloween. Can you imagine, that this one night a year, it is necessary for a guard to be placed at every fire-box in the city of Kingston to watch for false alarms. On the other hand, I have heard ever so many little children tell me how their parents warned them to "respect the rights and property of others" especially on Halloween. Ten-agers could be told that in school in a forceful manner that to cause damage to other people's property is vandalism, whether it is Monday, Tuesday or Halloween. I understand that Port Ewen and Connelly had a good case of vandalism this year on Halloween although little was said of it publicly. I understand six constables were on the run constantly in Esopus during Halloween, yet not able of course to cover the entire large vicinity. I saw a large settee in the middle of one Port Ewen street, also a large fence uprooted, and heard about many other acts of sadism and vandalism in those sections, not caused by one youngster, but by groups of many able-bodied teenagers with a gang leader.

I was interested to observe how they celebrate Halloween in Port Ewen. I did not see anyone in costume in the village. I was indeed surprised to see large groups of teen-agers and many girls with them also wearing dungarees going in gangs and their voices in shrill excitement. Each group seemed to have a leader, although each seemed to voice their opinions. I saw groups take off suddenly down the steep hills. No public Halloween party seemed to be in progress at the Esopus Town Hall. It was a beautiful night and the teen-agers were busy. As the calls of vandalism started coming in to the state troopers and the constables who of course could not be all over at one time. But around midnight the many youngsters were soon lined up on the long bench in front of the Esopus Town Hall, like birds on a wire, and the state troopers had other groups near there. Their evening of fun was over. The damage was done. They no longer were excited about tearing the Golden Rule in shreds.

Perhaps next year some arrangements will be made for a sleigh load and party for these enthusiastic young ones like in New Paltz this year. A barn dance at the Town Hall of Esopus, so they can dress and have fun without the need of destroying property belonging to their neighbors, might be the solution.

Circus Talk

Circus folk have a language all their own. To them, camels are humps, elephants are bulls, monkeys are old folk, hippos are hogs, hyenas are gravediggers, and ostriches are big turkeys. People who take in all the sights, but never buy tickets, are lotties to them.

Scattered

Many European birds are to be found, not only throughout most of northern Asia, but in North America as well, owing to suitable living conditions in both hemispheres.

A number of villagers are still totting water from the wells of their more fortunate neighbors. This has been going on for about two months now. The good driven wells at the two former school-houses of the twin villages have proved a great boon to local householders in the current emergency. Only Temple's Pond or Kenozia Lake, elongated sheet of water along the north side of the Onteora Trail near the Olive-Hurley town line which is said to be fed from springs in its floor, reveals no sign of drought.

Rome, Nov. 24 (AP)—Rep. Franklin D. ## Tough tests give you a better brake

Brakes... or breakfast food... manufacturers test and retest the products you use—to make sure you'll be satisfied!

When you slam on the brakes you really stop! Because leading auto makers brake their cars at high speed on the steepest test-track grades. It's just one of a hundred gruelling tests your brakes get—before you get them!

Manufacturers of brand name products give just about everything you use a rough going over, before you ever use it. They reject materials or parts that do not measure up to stiff quality standards.

They know that unless their products give you complete satisfaction you'll never ask for them again. So they compete to give you always better products.

The result, of course—you benefit from a wide selection of brand names that give you better values for your money.

Look for the trademarks in the advertisements as you glance through this newspaper. And next time you're in your local store, name your brand to better your brand of living.

Zoning Hearing Is Held by Aldermen On Ambrose Site

Petitions for and against the application of Michael Ambrose for a business zone designation on a property on Jansen avenue were left for consideration of the Common Council's laws and rules committee following public hearing last night in the council chamber, city hall.

Ambrose seeks the zoning change to use the property for the storage of automobiles. He was represented last night by Attorney Vincent G. Connelly and the opposing petitioners were represented by Sherwood E. Davis.

Has $30,000 Invested Connelly stressed that Ambrose has about $30,000 invested in the property, which is in a business zone atmosphere, and he held it should be designated as such. Other businesses are operating near it and it is along a railroad, he said, and the use to which it would be put would be of no hardship or inconvenience to the neighborhood.

Attorney Davis, and others opposing, held that their opposition was directed at the possible future uses of the property if it changed hands. It could then be used for an objectionable business or for light manufacturing they held.

Listed on Opposition

Among those opposing were Richard Bailey of East Chester street, Mrs. E. T. Kolb of Hasbrouck avenue and Michael Perry of Hasbrouck avenue.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the laws and rules committee, conducted the hearing. The zoning board once ruled against the use of the property for the processing of burlap bags, but that business has moved.

Photographs were submitted for study by the committee.

Miss Gloria Romano, John Francis Genthner Wed in Rosendale

Miss Gloria Jeanette Romano, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Romano of Rosendale, and the late Mr. Romano, became the bride of John Francis Genthner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Genthner of a cathedral town, in a ceremony held Sunday, Nov. 8 at 2 p. m. at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale.

The Rev. Vincent Mulrany, pastor of this church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney was organist and accompanied the soloists, Mrs. Sweeney, in the selections, O Promise Me, and Ave Maria.

The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums with the pews marked with white ribbons and white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her brother, Michael Romano, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with pointed sleeves of imported Chantilly lace, and a cathedral train. A Queen's tiara of sequins, sea pearls and sea beads secured a cathedral length veil. She carried a white orchid on a white satin prayer book.

Mrs. Rita Grommoll, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a strapless gown fashioned with a violet velvet bodice with orchid nylon tulle over tulle. Her headpiece was a matching bonnet of tulle. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were Miss Eileen Genthner, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Ann Pulverenti, niece of the bride. Their gowns were aqua and gold in identical style to that of the matron of honor. A contrasting bouquet of rust chrysanthemums for the aqua gown, and a spray of orchids for the gold gown, completed the ensembles.

The flower girl was Miss Rose Marie Pulverenti. Her gown was of rose colored tulle with a hoop skirt trimmed with delta blue velvet and pink rosebuds. A matching bonnet completed the ensemble. She carried a mixed colonial bouquet with colors of the bridesmaids' gowns.

Joseph Brazee was best man. Frank Grommoll, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Alfred Romano, brother of the bride of Connecticut, were ushers.

Charles Davis, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception was held at the Tropical Inn for 150 guests following the ceremony.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. and New York. For traveling, the bride wore a winter white dress with black velvet collar and cuffs, and a black velvet coat and velvet accessories, with a white orchid corsage.

The couple plan to make their future home in Rosendale.

The bride is employed by the High Falls Coil Company. The bridegroom is employed by Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen. He is a veteran of the Korean conflict.

Robert Craft Aids In Recording Opera By Igor Stravinsky

Robert Craft, famed young musical conductor from Kingston who has been associated with the composer-conductor Igor Stravinsky for several years, received praise for his talents in the December issue of Esquire magazine, in an article entitled, Igor Makes a Record, by Martin Mayer.

The record in question is the one waxed of The Rake's Progress, the opera score composed by the noted Mr. Stravinsky with libretto by the poet, W. H. Auden and Chester Kallman. Playing the role of the unfortunate Rakewell is Eugene Conley, of the Metropolitan Opera, who appeared here in October as a soloist in the Community Concert Series.

Mr. Craft, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Craft of 22 Washington avenue, was with Mr. and Mrs. Stravinsky when this opera was premiered in September, 1951, at the La Scala Opera House in Venice, Italy. He assisted with the production for the Metropolitan performance in 1952. The opera is now in the repertoire of the Met following its phenomenal success.

Of the recording session at Columbia Record Studios, New York, the article states, "The most formal man in the house was Robert Craft, a young conductor who is on of the few musicians Stravinsky has ever accepted as a disciple. Stravinsky had asked him to come, 'When I conduct I do not hear,' he says, 'Robert is my ears.' Craft has remarkable ears; throughout the sessions Openheim and Stravinsky deferred to his judgment in the matters of pitch."

There are several more references to Craft's contributions to the success of this recording session, in aiding the orchestral-vocal patterns to blend smoothly.

The article stresses the difficulty of obtaining a recording of an opera, emphasizing that it is "a complicated and expensive operation," so that much credit is due Craft for his work.

Plans under consideration for the busy and talented Craft include conducting a performance of the Rake's Progress at the University of California this winter, as well as a projected four-month concert tour through France, England, Germany, Italy and Spain. Austria. His spare time is spent putting the finishing touches on a novel he is writing, which will have considerable autobiographical and self-analytical content.

The townsfolk all enjoyed the chase, and there were grins on every face. (I hear the bets were rather high. The turkey had the odds—not I.) That wretched turkey made a stop, before the window of a shop. I flung my ax—Oh, what a crash! The plate-glass window went "ker-smash!" How do you play today's hand to make four spades? The "normal" method will produce nine tricks without the slightest trouble, giving the opponents a neat hundred points. If you dig, however, you'll find a way to earn the game and rubber for your own side.

The normal line of play is to win the first trick with the king of hearts, draw trumps, and give up a club trick. The trouble is that East returns the ten of diamonds. And South must lose at least three diamond tricks. (He's likely to lose four, in which case he winds up with only eight tricks.)

If you haven't already spotted the right way to play the hand, look it over for another moment or two. The sort of play that is called for is useful in a great many hands.

Here we go. With the first trick with the king of hearts, return a heart to the ace, and lead the nine of hearts, discarding the six of clubs from your hand.

West wins the heart trick, of course, but he can't do anything

Whenever East puts up the ace of clubs, you ruff and enter dummy with the third round of trumps to cash the rest of the clubs. You are sure to get three discards on the clubs, and you're quite willing to give up one diamond at the end.

200 Pledge Eyes For Lions Drive To Aid Sightless

The Kingston Lions Club to date has received 200 pledges of eyes from donors to be used to restore sight and to further scientific research. The campaign will be continued through Nov. 28.

Cards acknowledging receipt of the pledges are being mailed to the donors by the Sight Conservation and Blind Committee of the Lions Club.

George Svirsky, chairman of the committee, said that Kingston's response to this campaign to bring light out of darkness was "very gratifying." He also stressed the need for a greater number of pledges so that the eye banks may be in a better position to meet the demand for cornea transplants. At the present rate of supply it will take about 50 years to take care of the blind who wait. "Many thousands and thousands of donors are required if the need is to be met," he said.

Persons can be assured by funeral directors that the removal of the eyes from the deceased person will not mar the appearance of the body in any manner.

The society also points out that there are no religious objections to this program.

Most of the pledges received are from the coupon which has appeared several times in The Kingston Daily Freeman. This coupon is being published again today. Those who have not already done so are asked to fill this out and mail today.

Cats, Dogs Are Plentiful

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—United States households have just about as many cats and dogs as they have youngsters under 18. There are nearly 50 million cats and dogs and about the same number of children in American homes, according to a survey of the nation's pet population by the National Family Opinion Inc., a research organization of Toledo, Ohio. A report of the survey, released here yesterday, showed an average of 1.2 dogs and/or cats in the average home. The cats outnumber the dogs, but there are more dog owners.

City Takes on Yule Spirit

With a little more than a month left to complete those shopping chores, the uptown area of Kingston already is taking on a real appearance of Christmas and the festive Yuletide season. Here workers install the new multi-colored strands in the Fair street shopping area. The new bright strands are being used this year instead of the laurel strings that usually wilted at the time when they should have been green. Workmen installing the decorations say they will be as bright and cheery at Christmas as they are now. (Freeman photo)

Investor Forum

by
Harry C. France

THE CONSERVATIVE SPECULATOR

The "blue chips" leave many investors cold. They want to take on greater risk to gain greater income. Many prefer to buy on margin—borrowing as much as possible at the lowest possible rate.

Into such an atmosphere enters a young speculator in his early thirties. He has $6,000. It represents the net profit, after taxes, he has realized in a business deal that was too frozen for his comfort. He feels lucky to be out of it with a profit. Often, assets are as frozen as a New Hampshire lake in January.

So, with his $6,000 he wants to become (if such is possible) a conservative speculator. His requirements are (1) no blue chips (2) cheap borrowed money (3) liquidity (4) high yield and (5) thin margins.

And let me add parenthetically that I wish every speculator would be as careful in his risk-taking program as this young man is. His $6,000 of margin money will enable him to buy $12,000 worth of stocks. All must pay something. They must have excellent markets, thus making possible aggressive management of the account.

He works two days determining what he will buy. He selects 10 preferred stocks from a list of 30. He buys a loose-leaf note-book and writes full descriptions of the shares (their rights and privileges) on separate sheets. He purchases 20 shares each of the following stocks. It is a non-descript list—some fair grade, some low grade.

But it is just what he wants. They cost him $11,400. He puts up $6,000 and borrows (on demand at 4 per cent) $5,500. The shares promise to pay him about $1,025 a year. Dividends may be higher or somewhat lower than this. His borrowed money will cost $220 a year. That will leave him with about $800 on his $6,000 speculative operation, or 13 per cent a year.

What is the list?

1. American Car and Foundry, $7 preferred.

2. American Woolen, $7 preferred.

3. Armour, $6 preferred.

4. Baltimore and Ohio, $4 preferred.

5. Celanese, $4½ convertible preferred.

6. Chicago and Northwestern, $5 preferred.

7. Erie, $5 preferred.

8. Macy, $4½ preferred.
9. New York, New Haven and Hartford, $5 preferred.
10. St. Louis and San Francisco, $5 preferred.

There isn't a stock in this list in the same class with the preferred stocks of Eastman Kodak, International Harvester, National Biscuit and the like.

But the portfolio is made to order for the young risk-taker. He buys what he wants—high yield, potential capital gains, instant marketability.

This article will answer a hundred letters and inquiries I have received since Labor Day asking my opinion about interesting business deals in which risk-takers would be frozen into situations that might not work out.

Before any reader of these lines risks capital into ventures that are non-liquid, he should investigate such situations as the one uncovered here. Risk-taking of infinite variety is always possible in stocks enjoying good markets.

And the 10 listed in this piece are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Bids are always there for the shares. I would rather enter a liquid risk situation with a 10 per cent annual yield than a non-liquid situation paying 15 or 20 per cent. The ability to get out is always valuable.

In managing this account, the young speculator will take reasonable profits when they are available. He would like over a period of two to three years to take his profits out in the shares of American Car and Foundry preferred, Armour preferred and Macy preferred—stocks with fair investment rating.

The Forum

(Q) "Some government 2½ per cent bonds you suggested buying a few months ago at 90 are now 96. Would you take profits?"

(A) If you bought them for long-term investment, no. If you bought them for long-term capital gains, yes. Profit-taking in securities should always be directly associated with the economic plans and intentions of the capitalist.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

To a lady who doesn't know peas

Peas like this are spinster peas—been left on the vine too long. They're still fairly good looking, but they just aren't sweet sixteen—their skins are tough, their flavor is woody. JETS BLAST SANDS OF TIME—The blast of jet engines being run up at Northrop Aircraft's test facility on Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., has literally blown away the sands of time to reveal a past era's way of life. Powerful jets of the F-89 Scorpion interceptors have blown away the dry lake-bed sand to reveal, in solidified sandstone, the tracks of a two-wheeled cart and cleft footprints of oxen. Above, they're pointed out by Carroll O. Wheeler, Northrop technician. Old-timers say that a Spanish ox-drawn carreta, of the type that made these tracks, took longer to cross the dry lake than it recently took an F-89 to fly, the 1900 miles from Edwards base to Dayton, Ohio.

Deer 'Crashes' Local Greenhouse, Escapes

Saugerties, Nov. 24—During the open season for deer most hunters look all over for the illusive fauna and never seem to catch up with one.

Evidently they don't look in the right places for one literally dropped in on Mrs. Josephine Plimley's greenhouse adjacent to her florist establishment, the Flower Garden, right on Partition street in the village.

According to Mrs. William Straub who was working in one section of the greenhouse, a large crash was heard and upon checking, it appeared that something, which was later identified as a deer, had crashed through several panes of glass knocking over potted plants and trays of flowers. The deer did not stay to be discovered but made a hasty exit. Upon checking, several women in the immediate neighborhood stated they had seen a small deer cross West Bridge street and had heard the barking of dogs. Damage to the greenhouse was roughly estimated at $200. Mrs. Plimley said she hoped the mild weather would continue until the greenhouse could be repaired as a cold spell right now would ruin some of the plants housed there.

Kills Reported

Saugerties, Nov. 24—At two unofficial check points, Van Bramer-Perks Service Center, several deer kills were reported in the last few days. George Sowles of Canoe Hill downed a five-point buck. Chet Tobias of Mt. Marion, Joseph Fabiano, Frank Mauro, Frank Naccarato and Joseph Carino all of Glasco reported bucks taken this week. Roy Longeddy showed with a handsome seven-pointer.

50 Club and Back's Cedaraps Battle for Autumn 'B' Title

Outsiders Meet On YMCA Court

Two teams that didn't figure largely in pre-season Autumn League "B" estimates will be fighting it out for the championship tonight on the YMCA hardwoods.

Meaning the 50 Club and Back's Cedaraps with the tapoff scheduled at 8:15 p. m.

Both of these squads seemed virtually out of the running for the "B" title until a few days ago. Rapp's Express with a 4-1 record faced Angel Juniors (3-1) on Nov. 4 in what appeared to be the deciding game of the Autumn season.

The Angels won by seven points and the 50 Club came back the following week by completely outplaying the league leading Angels, 96-57. Now the two teams considered most likely to vie for the championship are on the outside looking in.

Big Game Saturday
The "A" pennant will be decided Saturday night when Haber's Grill (7-1) goes against Victory Bakery (2-6) at 7:15 p. m. Harry's Angels (6-2) face Lincoln Park Inn (1-7). Barring a major upset, the Grills and Angels figure to win and the championship would go to Haber's with an 8-1 record.

Bezezer Leads Scorers
Dick Bezezer of Haber's Grill leads the individual scorers with 175 points and a 21.9 average per game. Herbie Waterous of Waterous Lumber has 144 points and a 20.6 average to pace the "B" division. A close second is Bob Kozlowski of Rapp's with most points (164) and a 20.5 average.

The steady stream of sparkling triples compiled weekly by the young lady got us to thinking.

What is Marie Kelekian averaging these days?

A quick call to the Friendship League secretary, Helen Murphy, and we had the answer. A resounding 181.6 for 24 games. With those credentials Mrs. Kelekian emerges as the female Bowler of the Season.

Mrs. Kelekian possesses a smooth, free-wheeling style that should keep her in the upper bracket scoring groove for a long time. Like a golfer, a bowler must have her basic form, grooved steady, rhythmic footwork, timing and a consistent "turn" and speed of the bowling ball.

En route to her 181.6 mark, she has topped over such robust series as 581-579-568-545-546, with high singles of 211, 203, 218 and 220. Not once in this campaign has she dipped below the "500" mark, a trademark of consistency.

Maria has an excellent chance to become the second woman bowler in local history to achieve a 180 average for a complete season. Rose Schatzel was the first and only woman to turn the trick. Several women have held 180 averages during parts of a season but only Mrs. Schatzel ever did it for the distance.

Helen Murphy's secretarial book also reveals that veteran Marge Jansen has lost none of her pocket-busting acumen and is rolling along at an impressive 172.2 for 24 games, with high sets of 550 and 560. Dot Rawding is moving at a 168.18 pace and Eleanor Dumenigo has cracked the elite circle with a 165 figure.

These statistics are all the more remarkable since these young women are strictly once-a-week performers.

Secretary Jessie Burnett of the Central Rec Women's League points with pride to the accomplishments of Jennie Spada, who slumped in the 1952-53 campaign after a sensational season as a 3-0 record.

Today Miss Spada boasts a 171 average for 33 games and figures to stay in the 170-plus bracket for the remainder of the season. Strangely enough, Mrs. Jansen, a 172.2 performer in the Friendship League, is hitting only 160-plus in the Central Rec on the same alleys. Proving that the stronger the competition the better the old pros react.

Miss Spada and Mrs. Jansen, incidentally, were involved in a three-way tie with Fannie Battaglinio for high triple last week with 551. Miss Battaglinio also rolled the highest single of 227.

Earl Sleight, the sorrel-thatched baseball hurler, pitched a lot of strikes to compile high single honors of 277 and high series of 652, a pin more than Ken Joseph could collect in the Central Major.

There was a flurry of high single activity in the male loops, with five scores over 250 reported in addition to Sleight's 277. Anton Werbalowsky, the concert violinist, cracked 268 in the Good Neighbor wheel, Jim Secreto fired 265 in the Ferraro Major, Jack Healey 255 in the Ferraro Mixer. Len Ward tied that mark in the YMCA Mercantile.

THE ELEVENTH FRAME:
Morris Cramer, ex-Cohoes hot-shot, is averaging 205 in the Windy City Classic at Chicago in the company of such greats as Buddy Bomar, Ned Day, Ad Carlson, Paul Krumske, Joe Wilman and the rest. No takers yet on the $1000 challenge issued by Jones Dairy against the world for a 3-game match on alleys 7 and 8 at the Bowlodrome. Five keglers in the "200 average" bracket is unprecedented for the Hudson Valley League at this stage of the season. President Bill Murray of the KBA has submitted a proposed change in the American Bowling Congress constitution which would permit city associations to elect more directors than the minimum now set by ABC rules. If the change is adopted at the next ABC convention, the KBA, although it is under 1000 teams, could name additional directors from New Paltz and Rosendale. The proposal has been approved by Ken Hurley, Rules Interpretation, chairman of the ABC. Orchids to the bowling secretaries of Kingston who are doing a splendid job of reporting scores this year.

Giardello Beats Tuzo Portuguese In Parkway Brawl

Brooklyn, Nov. 24 (AP)—Bob Christenberry has mellowed in the two years since he first took over as chairman of the State Athletic Commission. Otherwise middleweight Joey Giardello of Philadelphia and Tuzo (Kid) Portuguese would be under suspension today for their rough-house brawl at the Eastern Parkway Arena last night.

Giardello, the No. 3 middleweight contender, won the turbulent, telecast 10-rounder by unanimous decision in a scrap marred by continuous fouling. Practically every rule in the book was broken.

Each fighter was penalized a round—Portuguez the fourth for butting and low blows and Giardello the ninth for low blows—but the only person suspended was Jack Friday, Portuguez's heavy set trainer. Friday climbed on the apron of the ring during the wild fourth round and was suspended on the spot and barred from the corner by Christenberry.

When Christenberry first took over his post in '51 his first big fight was the foul-packed frey between Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler. Christenberry revoked Pep's license (it later was restored) and suspended Saddler for an indefinite period. This was the roughest New York fight since then.

Referee Ruby Goldstein and Judge Dave Stewart each scored 7-2-1 in favor of Giardello. Judge Bert Grant scored it 6-3-1 for Joey. The AP scorecard had Giardello the winner 5-3-2.

Giardello weighed 160, Portuguez 161. A crowd of about 1,500 paid about $3,000.

Orlando, Fla.—Louis (Boho) Newsom, most widely traveled man in baseball, announced his retirement after 26 years in the game.

Windup Is Same
The windup was reminiscent of the stormy climax of three weeks ago. Contrary to the rules, the bout ended with all four grapplers in the ring.

Melby appeared to have a secure shoulder press on Mike Sharpe when the action switched abruptly to another corner of the ring where Ben Sharpe successfully applied the crusher to Darnell, the TV darling. The time was 16:41 and the Sharpes strode jauntily out of the arena.

But not the crowd. They loitered around ringside for several minutes, clamoring for new judges, a new referee and heaping verbal abuse on anybody who resembled a Sharpe partisan. In due time the crowd dispersed and everybody went home, unscathed.

Barend Wins
Johnny Barend, 250, Rochester, copped a best-of-three falls victory over Jack Bence, 220, Pittsfield, Mass.

Barend won the first fall in 15 minutes with a reverse Jackknife. Bence surprised Barend in 3 minutes flat with a shoulder press to square the match. Then Barend closed out the duel with a flying leap and shoulder press at 6:04 of the third fall.

Jack Nichols, 214, Thunder Bay, Minn., used the deadly cobra twist to exact a concession from Lenny Ross, 209, St. Louis, in 12:17 of the 30-minute opener.

Officials were: Joe Vozdik, Saugerties, referee; Tony Muscatello, Troy, and Barney Williams, Newburgh, judges; Fred Eisler, timer and Dick McCarthy, announcer.

Promoter Ted Bayly announced the next card would be held on Monday, Dec. 7.

James W. Surber of San Angelo, Tex., and Bobby E. Chapman of Russellville, Ark., ride Army's mule mascots during football games.

Sharpes Retain Title With Two-Fall Victory

Reverse Score on Melby and Darnell

The crowd was smaller at the municipal auditorium last night, but the excitement and action was just as terrific as three weeks ago.

Only this time Mike and Ben Sharpe retained their Australian tag team wrestling championship with a two-fall victory over the persistent challengers Will Bill Melby and Billy Darnell.

Using an aggregate of 510 pounds of solid man to the best advantage, the Sharpes (Mike 260 lbs.) grabbed the first fall in 6:45 against Melby.

A lot of things happened between the first and second falls to turn the auditorium into a bedlam.

First Ben Sharpe casually flung Referee Joe Vozdik halfway across the ring into the ropes. Then a shower of missiles descended into the ring. All four grapplers got into the act before order was restored.

Darnell employed an airplane spin and body slam to pin Ben Sharpe to the mat for the second fall in 5:31.

The highly partisan Melby-Darnell crowd screamed in anguish and gave Referee Vozdik a terrific going over before the deciding fall.

Mike Sharpe, the better thespian of the two statuette brothers, drained every drop of anguish out of the Melby-Darnell rosters by clamping a punishing wrist lock on Melby. He held it for several minutes.

Brown Got Rid of Malcontents Hired New Players to Restore Championship Stride

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN
(Second of a Series)
This was the year the Cleveland Browns were supposed to fall apart.

Eight members had been with the team since its inception in 1946. Eight more were veteran pros on their last legs.

They ended the 1952 season racked with dissension, satiated with seven years of continuous success, gluttoned with desire to pick up a quick buck while they were still around. They cut the trainer and clubhouse boy out of the payroll-shares. They looked washed up.

Came The Change
But have you looked at the latest National Football League standings? They're calling this edition of the Browns, undefeated in 9 games, the greatest of them all.

"This is as good a team as we've ever had," says Otto Graham, the quarterback who should know because he's been on all of them. "It's regained the spirit."

How, you ask?
"One," continues Otto, "we got rid of some malcontents. They got to thinking more about making a dollar than winning. Two, new players came in to help us and instill a desire to win. Three, we older fellows re-examined ourselves."

At 32, Otto hasn't missed a contest in eight years. "The only thing that'll drive me out of football," he says, "are those butterflies I still get in my stomach before each game."

Early this season, veteran guard Abe Gibrone suffered a torn knee cartilage. It's the kind of injury that sidelines you for the year, or maybe for good. Abe has missed only two games this season, playing with a hinge wrapped in guaze and adhesive.

"Sheer desire, that's what did it," murmurs trainer Leo Murphy in wonderment.

The Pattern Is Simple
Fullback Chick Jagade emits a banshee yell when he runs. End Len Ford delights in banging heads together. It all fits into a pattern of intensity that transcends the money.

Spirit is a quality usually associated with college teams. The Browns have it as pros. Ask Don Cole, defensive right tackle. Playing with habitual losing teams in Baltimore and Dallas, he was lost in the shuffle.

The Browns' clubhouse is a warm place, filled with roughhousing, laughter and friendly needling you associate with compatible environment. There are no groups huddling in corners.

Halfback Ken Carpenter kids sidelined defensive back, Tommy James. "When you going to get around to give us some help and earn your pay, T.J.?"

"Look what's talking," rebuts James. "A halfback who lets a tackle catch him from behind in an open field. Or would you prefer to forget the Pittsburgh games?"

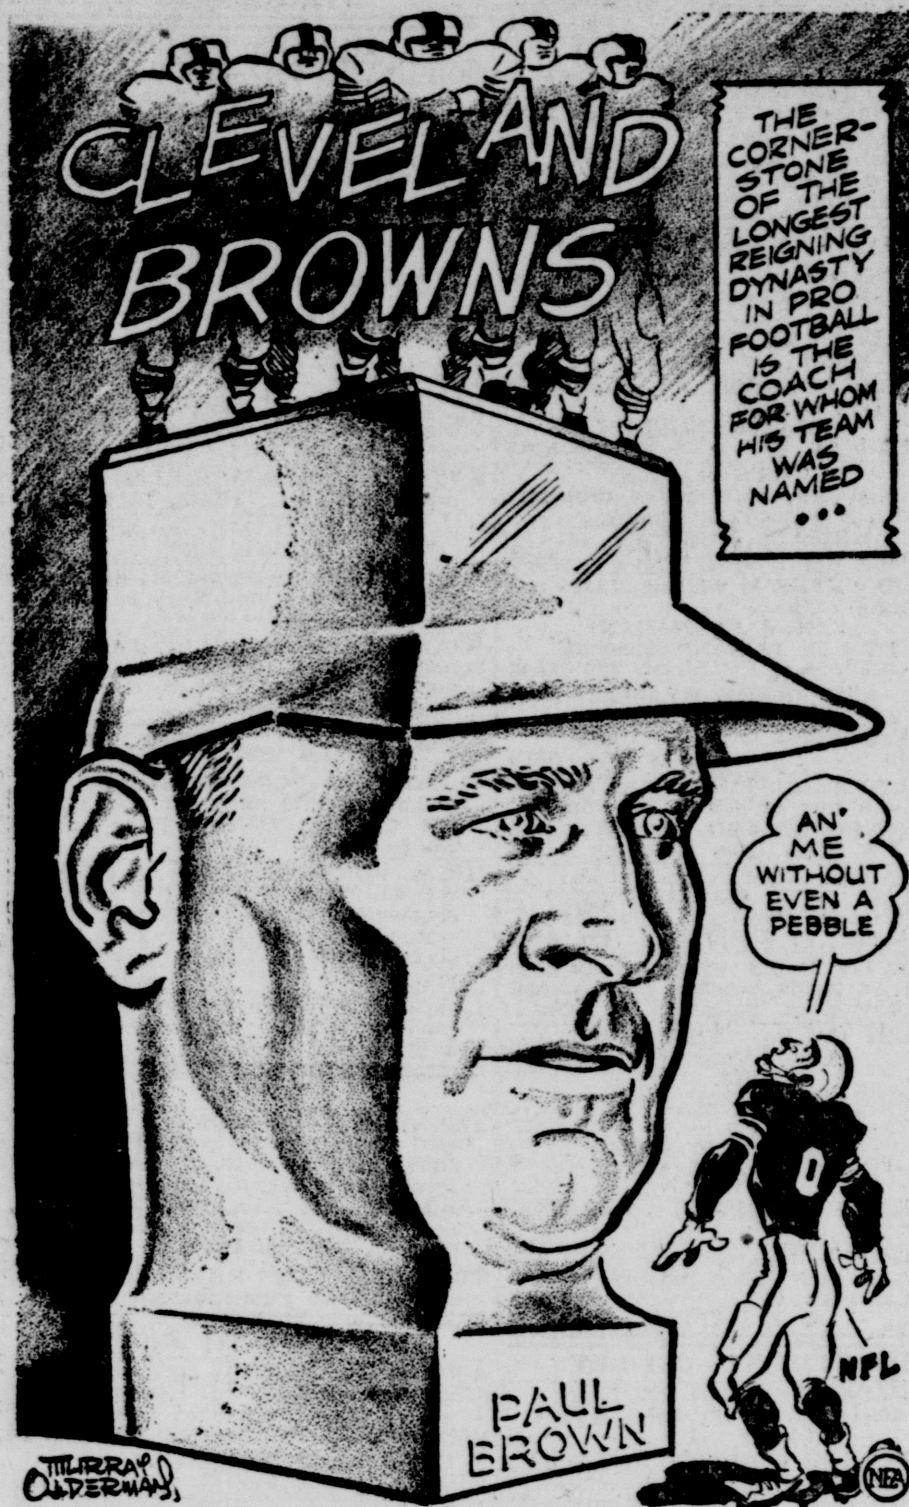

Carpenter, one of the great blockers in football, won't get complacent. Breathing down his neck is Ray Renfro, a 9.7 sprinter who's coming on fast in his sophomore season.

The entire pattern of the Browns this year is the sudden infusion of new strength. They used to sneer the Browns were essentially a "pass and trap" team. Their halfbacks couldn't run. Not any more, with Renfro and Pittsburgh Billy Reynolds, a kid with most bowed legs in football, pushing Carpenter and Dub Jones.

Marion Motley, the fullback who used to spring the trap down the middle, has been supplanted by Jagade. Such first year pros as safety Ken Konz, linebacker Tom Catlin and shuttle guard Chuck Noll are seeing full-time service.

If anything happened to Otto Graham, there still would be a George Ratterman to carry on.

Is that bad?
The largest swordfish ever caught on rod and reel was a 1,182-pound broadbill caught by Lew E. Marron off the coast of Chile.

Dawkins Nationals Annex Third Straight Rec Game

Dawkins Nationals trounced the capable Waterboys, 48-31, for their third straight Recreation Junior League triumph last night at the MJM gym.

Maines Sport Shop capped its second in a row, 36-32, over the Spartans.

The Dawkins quintet is unbeaten in three starts and Maines and Esposito's Cleaners each have two wins and no setbacks.

Fleming Hits 24
A 24-point blast by Tom Fleming sparked the Dawkins who dominated the game after a 10-9 edge at the period. They outscored the Waterboys, 15-2, in the quarter to take charge, 25-11, at halftime. Rich Strong rimmed 13 points for the winners. Jack Redmond led the losers with 10.

Maines Sport ran up a 22-10 lead in the first half against the Spartans and needed it all, as the losers rallied to outscore them, 22-14, after the recess.

Frank Turk led Maines with 10 points and Bob Burns hit with 8. Bechtold had nine and Pangburn and Jackson eight each for the Spartans.

Newsom's Retirement Ends 26-Year Career

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 24 (P)—Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, patriarch of the pitcher's mound, has retired from baseball after 26 years.

Newsom announced at his home yesterday that he had asked for and received his retirement from the Philadelphia Athletics through President Connie Mack.

Of Bobo, now 46 years old, started his career with Raleigh, N. C., in 1928 and joined the Brooklyn Dodgers the following season. During his long stay in the majors, he pitched for six American and three National League clubs. He was with the Washington Senators five different times.

Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

"Consult a specialist" is a phrase often spoken in reference to human medicine.

I do not want to go out on a limb and advocate one kind of medical doctor or another for anyone's needs, but it is pretty obvious that no one would recommend a foot specialist for a heart disorder or an abdominal operation.

"What has this to do with dogs?" asked Jack Lyon, who was listening impatiently to this bit of preaching.

Make Good Choice

Well, sir, instead of looking down that list of trainers for a name that sounds like Uncle Henry's or one that has an honest ring to it, put some thought into considering the kind of work you'd like him to do. Then choose a trainer that works with your kind of dog.

I pointed out the names of two Spaniel trainers. I have no doubt but what they could manage to do a good job, but wouldn't it make more sense to send your setter to a pointing-dog trainer? And what's more, many of these pointing-dog men have strings which they are training for trials in which they must range wide in open country or for covey quail shooting on horseback.

I pointed to another trainer on the list. This fellow says he's preparing for the southwest circuit and this one makes claim to training many field trial winners. Such trainers seldom have room, patience or cover to train a grouse and woodcock shooting dog.

Shooting Specialists
"How about this one?" asked Jack. "His advertisement reads 'Shooting Dogs My Specialty.'"

That's the ticket, I agreed. Check the boys who specialize in shooting dogs and choose from among that group—and if you wanted a retriever trained, you'd look to retriever trainers to do the job—or a Spaniel man to train a flushing dog to quarter.

Terps Hold 154-47 Edge in Voting

New York, Nov. 24 (P)—Maryland was undisputed master of college football for the first time this season today after pushing Notre Dame off the top rung.

The Terps, the only undefeated, untied major team in the country, took over first place in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters in emphatic fashion, polling 2,347 votes to 2,009 for second place Notre Dame.

It was the first time this year the Irish were not masters of all they surveyed. From before the start of the campaign when they were voted the No. 1 team in the AP's pre-season poll until they were held to a 14-14 tie by Iowa Saturday, Frank Leahy's lads were ahead.

Maryland, which finished its 10-game season by routing Alabama 21-0 last Saturday, picked up 154 first place votes of the 254 ballots cast. The points are awarded on the basis of 10 for first, nine for second, eight for third and so on.

Notre Dame, which now shows a 7-0-1 record for its season's work, still must play Southern California and Southern Methodist.

This is the first time in history Maryland has been able to reach the top of the AP poll. Coach Jim Tatum's Terps probably will represent the Atlantic Coast Conference in the Orange Bowl against Oklahoma on New Year's Day.

The top 10 (first place votes and team records in parentheses):

| TEAM                              | POINTS |
|-----------------------------------|--------|
| 1. Maryland (154) (10-0) .....    | 2,347  |
| 2. Notre Dame (47) (7-0-1) .....  | 2,009  |
| 3. Michigan State (8) (8-1) ..... | 1,797  |
| 4. Oklahoma (9) (7-1-1) .....     | 1,553  |
| 5. UCLA (8) (8-0) .....           | 1,440  |
| 6. Illinois (7-1-1) .....         | 1,111  |
| 7. Texas (6-3) .....              | 990    |
| 8. Iowa (7-2) .....               | 671    |
| 9. Iowa (6) (5-3-1) .....         | 453    |
| 10. Georgia Tech (7-2-1) .....    | 415    |

Journalist Is Arrested

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 24 (P)—Egyptian police have arrested a British journalist, Tom Clarke, in Alexandria. He was the third British subject picked up by the Egyptians within a week. Clarke was arrested yesterday but the British embassy here said it had not been informed of the charges against him. Clarke, a resident of Egypt for more than 20 years, is correspondent for several foreign newspapers. He formerly was Alexandria correspondent for the United Press as well as Alexandria editor of the Egyptian Mail, a Cairo English-language daily.

flush, remain steady to wing and shot and retrieve on command. This reminds me of a fellow who wanted to send a retriever to an obedience training school. Then, he said, he'll be ready for further training in the field.

Nothing could be more incorrect. The dog would learn a different set of commands. He'd learn to heel on the wrong side. He'd become completely mechanical and dependent upon the handler with complete loss of initiative.

I don't think there's any question about it. It is wise to put your dog in the hands of a trainer who specializes in the kind of work you want your dog to do.

Second Meeting For Church Loop

Championship teams in various sports in the county's CYO program were honored at a Sports Night sponsored by the Immaculate Conception Church Saturday at the church hall.

Among the squads honored were football, track, basketball, baseball, softball and bowling.

After the luncheon, the Rev. Joseph Seiczek gave a short but interesting speech on the importance of team work in sports. Dancing followed with music by the Edward Lukas orchestra.

Greenglass Writes Spy Ring Could Be Working Now

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—David Greenglass, confessed atom spy, testified in writing today a radar spy ring headed by executed Julius Rosenberg "could very possibly be continuing to this very day."

A sworn deposition made by Greenglass at the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., was read into the record at an open hearing conducted by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations.

McCarthy called the hearing ostensibly to support his charges that an espionage ring operated at the Army Signal Corps Radar Laboratory at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Greenglass said that, so far as he knew, the Rosenberg radar spy ring activities "never stopped."

He is a brother of Ethel Rosenberg, who was executed with her husband, Julius, in the Sing Sing prison electric chair for stealing atom bomb secrets for Russia.

Greenglass is serving a 15-year term for his part in the atom spy plot. He had testified against his sister and brother-in-law.

He Learned More

Greenglass, who had been stationed at the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic energy project as an army sergeant, said he learned more about the activities of the Rosenberg ring after he left the army.

He declared that "after 1947" while he and Rosenberg were in business together in New York, Rosenberg "told me certain things about the secrets and material they stole for Russia."

Asked if he had learned whether there was espionage in the Army Signal Corps, Greenglass replied: "Yes. . . I learned that the Rosenberg ring took and obtained secrets from the Army Signal Corps and transmitted them to Russia. . . Rosenberg also told me that he gave all the electronic tube manuals he could get his hands on to Russia, some of which were classified 'top secret.'"

Barrel of Oil Is Sought by Police

Police learned yesterday that it doesn't pay to let anything smaller than a box car stand around unprotected on city streets.

A complaint at 6:15 p. m., said a barrel of oil (55 gallons) had been placed on the sidewalk at Delaware avenue and Murray street shortly after 5 p. m., and when it was to be picked up it was missing.

On request of the Roberts Express Officers Louis Sapp, Jr. and Edward Edwards were dispatched to help look for it. They reported that a bus driver told them he saw a man put the barrel in his car and drive off with it.

Some species of rattlesnake are able to swim in the ocean.

Port Ewen Corps To Lead 156th in Parade for Movie

The Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps will lead the parade of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, Wednesday evening to commemorate the opening of a six-day showing of the film, "Take the High Ground," at the Broadway Theatre and opening the exhibition of National Guard equipment at the theatre.

Starting time of the march is 6:30 p. m., according to Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin of the 156th, and it will reach the Broadway Theatre about 7 o'clock for formation and an award ceremony, he said.

The drum corps will have a busy holiday season. Following Wednesday evening's parade the corps will appear in the Thanksgiving Day parade in Poughkeepsie, Thursday morning.

Take the High Ground, starring Richard Widmark, Karl Malden, Careton Carpenter, Russ Tamblyn and Elaine Stewart promises to be a big box-office attraction. It is another Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production.

Take the High Ground is the story of infantrymen in training. It pays high tribute to the U. S. soldier and the rugged, realistic training which the army provides for him.

Take the High Ground is the theme song of the film. It was composed from the infantry's historic goal, "take the high ground, and hold it." The cost is composed of thousands of fighting men at Fort Bliss, whose cooperation made the picture possible.
